PARKER'S STORM CAT

With B. Wayne Hughes sending Seattle Slew mares such as Lochlin Slew ($1,250,000 Keeneland 2-Y-O) and Baltic Nations ($975,000 Keeneland weanling), this half-brother to Malibu Moon is the real deal. Same story as Malibu Moon: Brilliant speed, got hurt, big upside as stallion.

NO ARMISTICE

Fastest Beyer Speed Ratings by sons of Unbridled: Unbridled's Song 118, Broken Vow 116, No Armistice 112. You won't believe the tapes of his races on our video—he was that fast.

UNDEFEATED AT TWO

TWO brilliant victories as a 2-year-old put him on the Triple Crown trail

- ◆ A month later, won his second start by a spectacular 8¼ lengths, an allowance race at Aqueduct carrying topweight of 121.

Letters to the editor

QUESTIONS SURROUNDING MIKE GILL SHOULD BE ANSWERED

Is Michael Gill good for horse racing?

If you want to stop a conversation, just ask a Thoroughbred trainer or owner that question. At the very least, the conversation will drop to whispered tones. The real question is whether or not Gill's activities are good for the industry, and is his organization competing fairly. Gill has tried to explain his organization through the media with several articles published as to what he is doing to the horses physically, surgically and in training. His explanations are reasonable, but leave many unanswered questions. As long as there is doubt about his operations, how can he expect the industry to support him in the balloting for the Eclipse award?

The industry also has to share the responsibility for the doubt about Gill's operations. In 2003, Gill was the leading owner at the Gulfstream Park meeting. He and his trainer Mark Shuman set a win record that will probably stand for some time as they saddled winner after winner at Gulfstream and claimed more horses in a season than any other owner in the history of the track.

So why isn't he at Gulfstream this year? The famous incident of the horse that broke down on the track and had his leg amputated after being put down is fairly well-known. Certainly that is not the sole cause for not having your record-setting leading owner and trainer of 2003 not participate in your 2004 meeting. Gulfstream should spell out to the public the reasons that Gill was not allowed to return for 2004.

It is also confusing that Magna Entertainment Corp. owns Gulfstream Park, as well as Laurel Park, Pimlico and Santa Anita—other tracks that do accept Gill's entries.

Delaware Park ruled Gill off the grounds for its 2003 meeting, and Gill threatened litigation. Neither party has done much to inform the public and industry since then as to why Gill was denied stalls or denied the opportunity to race there. Delaware and Gill need to make their case public, and tell the whole story, so that the industry can decide if there are grounds for such action.

What advantages does Gill have due to the way he has structured his organization? Some of the questions are obvious but subtle. When Gill enters a horse, the majority of the time he enters as Michael Gill, owner. Gill has stated in interviews that he has investors. Who are they? Is he the sole owner of all of these horses or is the ownership clouded? If these are partnerships, the licensing process is more complicated and expensive.

Gill has so many horses that on many occasions he is able to enter two horses in the same race, creating an entry. The tracks allow him to scratch one half of the entry right up until race day without incurring any penalty for the horse being scratched. This does give Gill a competitive advantage, as he is able to run the horse that is the most competitive speed-wise or the horse that feels the best on race day. He often scratches one of the horses. It makes you think "Size really does count."

A single horse entered into a race is subject to penalties if scratched after the official track scratch time. Entries occurred in a relatively small percentage of races until the Gill organization came to the races.

Is Gill paying his trainers a day rate or does he have them under private contract? The average owner has to pay whatever the local trainers will charge and it is pretty much a "set" fee for each track or training facility. If he has a competitive advantage here, it will force the smaller outfits to either look for different methods of paying their trainers or force them out of the business (much like the closing of so many small retail stores and markets when Wal-Mart comes to town).

Does the size of Gill's operation give him an unfair advantage in retaining the top jockeys to ride for him? Most industry folks understand the first call rider agreements, but are these agreements fair to all concerned when you have an operation the size and scope of Gill's?

The biggest question and concern is what is happening to the horses in the barn. There have been so many rumors about Gill's practices that the industry has either ignored or chosen to punish Gill by not allowing him stalls or refusing to take his entries. The tracks need to articulate their position on these allegations to the betting public and the industry.

Gill's recent statement that the Eclipse Award committee snubbed him does have merit, though not in light of all the unanswered questions. His stable's results for 2003 were undeniably fantastic. It is pretty certain that he will never win the Eclipse until these allegations and concerns are addressed both by the tracks and Gill. Until then, a cloud of doubt will hang over the Thoroughbred industry and we won't know whether or not Mike Gill is good for horse racing. This is not fair to the many people who invest in this industry, the fans or to Mike Gill!

MID-ATLANTIC REPORT

RERUN GETS OFF TO STRONG START IN MARYLAND

The Maryland chapter of ReRun—ReRun's newest outpost—is beginning to take shape on 160 acres overlooking the Sassafras River in Cecilton, Md.

Known as ReRun Maryland at Greener Pastures, the facility is located on property donated by the family of the late Doris Wear, a foxhunting enthusiast who envisioned a haven for horses, dogs, cats and birds. ReRun took over management of the farm on June 1, 2003.

The goal for the Maryland facility is two-fold, explained executive director Wendy Moon: "To serve as an educational center and introduce people to the Thoroughbred breed. Also, to make the Thoroughbred racing industry more aware of the options they have when dealing with unwanted race horses."

On April 17, ReRun Maryland will host a repeat of its one-day seminar, "Horse Ownership 101: Getting Into the Business," which drew strong response when offered for the first time last September.

Additional seminars will be conducted in the near future. And numerous other projects are under discussion—including a cooperative educational program with the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center, the large animal veterinary facility located nearby.

Improvements soon to be undertaken include construction of a new, larger barn and outdoor arena, separating the large fields into smaller paddocks and turning the estate's guest house into a main office.

ReRun is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to providing ex-race horses the opportunity for a new career. The organization was incorporated in Kentucky in 1998, and now has sites in New Jersey, New York, Virginia, Illinois, Arkansas and Washington, as well as Maryland.

Horses' temperaments and physical capabilities are evaluated before they are accepted into the ReRun program. Those judged unsuitable as riding horses are not chosen. However, ReRun still attempts to find these horses companion homes.

Moon, who took over as executive director of ReRun Maryland on January 1, splits the workload with Cliff Lloyd, who maintains the farm's grounds.

In managing ReRun Maryland, Moon draws upon extensive experience within the racing industry. A former writer for Thoroughbred Times, Moon headed Robert P. Levy's Muirfield East farm in Chesapeake City, which existed as a major training and sales-prepping center throughout much of the 1990s. She also previously served as executive director of Thoroughbred Charities of America.

Moon took on responsibility for ReRun's Maryland chapter to get back in touch with her equine roots. "I missed the horses since Muirfield East sold," Moon said. "The Thoroughbred business has been good to me and I wanted to give something back."

A clinic organized by Wendy Moon and Sharon Dominguez featuring GaWaNi Pony Boy is scheduled July 10 and 11 at Tailwinds Farm in North East, Md. All proceeds from the event will benefit ReRun Maryland at Greener Pastures.

For more information on the clinic or ReRun Maryland at Greener Pastures, contact Wendy Moon at (410) 885-2198. Information on other ReRun chapters may be found on the organization's Web site at www.rerun.org or by contacting Shon Wylie at (859) 484-2003.

NEW JERSEY RACING COMMISSION REMAINS IN LIMBO

The New Jersey Racing Commission remains in limbo nearly one year after Governor James McGreevey signed legislation that calls for it to undergo sweeping changes.

Gov. McGreevey put his imprint on the reconstitution of the commission by conditionally vetoing the original legislation in December 2002. Citing concerns over possible conflicts of interest, the governor objected to a provision that would have allowed horsemen licensed in New Jersey to serve on the commission. The legislature bowed to the governor's recommendation last spring and modified the bill to allow commissioners to hold licenses as owners—but in states other than New Jersey.

Under the new law, the nine-member commission is set to undergo a dramatic overhaul, with four of the nine seats reserved for horsemen's representatives. This would mark the first time horsemen have had such direct input into the make-up of the commission.

The New Jersey Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association (NJTHA) would recommend two appointees and the Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association of New Jersey would propose the other two. The governor would designate five appointees and all nine would require the approval of the state Senate.

The reconstitution has fallen hostage to a two-year battle between the NJTHA and the commission that shows no sign of resolution.

The commission has filed suit to freeze the assets of the NJTHA, charging the organization with mismanagement of funds spent for lobbying and legal fees, especially those paid to Dennis Drazin, the NJTHA's legislative counsel.

Drazin had a legal victory in December when New Jersey Superior Court Judge Alexander Lehrer determined his payments to be "more than reasonable." However, the commission continues its investigation of the NJTHA.

Compromise remains elusive as the commission wants current NJTHA board members barred from reelection.

"They are making it pretty difficult," Drazin said. "Every time we make some progress, they throw in a term that is usually unacceptable. Right now, we are on hold."

The governor's office has indicated a desire to see the current issues resolved before moving ahead with reconstitution.

The net result: A weakened commission remains adrift.

The current commission members remain in place even though their terms have expired. The commission is down to seven members as vacancies go unfilled.

"All that we know is that when the law passed, the seven existing commissioners' terms were terminated," said Frank Zanzuccki, the commission's executive director. "They all serve in a holdover capacity until either reappointed or replaced. That's all we know. Nobody has been reappointed. Nobody has been replaced."

The commission, once an active body that conducted monthly meetings, has only five scheduled meetings in 2004.

NEW JERSEY MOVES TOWARD OFF-TRACK WAGERING

The New Jersey Racing Commission has approved a master off-track wagering participation agreement involving the state's three race track ownership entities—the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, Greenwood Racing and Pennwood Racing.

The agreement, approved on February 18, paves the way for as many as 15 off-track wagering facilities to be built throughout New Jersey. The Sports Authority has rights to nine sites, eight in the northern portion of the state and the other in southerly Ocean County. Pennwood Racing, which owns Freehold Raceway, has rights to four sites, expected to be built in central Jersey but not in Monmouth County, which is home to both Monmouth Park and Freehold.

Pennwood may also locate one of its four sites in Ocean County.

Greenwood Racing, which owns Atlantic City Race Course, is allotted two sites. Vineland and Cherry Hill, in the southern part of the state, are likely candidates.

New Jersey's race tracks "will economically derive great benefit from the sites," said Hal Handel, CEO of Greenwood Racing, owner of Philadelphia Park and its six Turf Clubs in Pennsylvania. Handel said that the two OTBs Greenwood will open in New Jersey are very likely to have a "Turf Club" feel, containing a restaurant and plush amenities.

Now that the commission has approved the master participation agreement, it goes to the state attorney general for approval. Handel said the next steps for the operators would be to identify a space or building for the OTB, work with professionals such as architects and builders, present the plans to the municipality, and target an opening date. The whole process could take seven to 10 months, and each site would likely encompass between 12,000 and 35,000 square feet.

Dennis Drazin, legal counsel for the New Jersey Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association, said that a 2001 study projected as much as $20 million per year for Thoroughbred and Standardbred horsemen could be realized from off-track and account (phone and Internet) wagering, once they are fully implemented.

An account wagering agreement between the Sports Authority and Pennwood, which also will need the Commission's approval, is believed to be nearing finalization.

As of February 27, the NJSEA was close to announcing a unique deal with the Atlantic City casino industry, whereby the casinos would pay up to $20 million per year towards purses for a four-year period in exchange for the horse racing industry not pursuing slots or VLTs at race tracks.

—PENSIONERS ON PARADE—

COLONEL HILL BUDDING DRESSAGE STAR

This is part of a series of articles on horses who had a significant impact on racing and/or breeding and now are pensioned within the Mid-Atlantic region.

Maggie Wolfendale, 17, has been in love with Colonel Hill from practically as far back as she can remember.

"He was my favorite horse ever since he came to the track. I used to cry when he got claimed, and I was so happy when he came back," said Maggie, whose parents Howard and Tammy Wolfendale run a well-established public training stable in Maryland.

Under the Wolfendales' handling, the Colonel, a flashy bay son of Temperence Hill, blossomed into a stakes winner as a 2-year-old in 1990, capturing the Devil's Bag Stakes and finishing second to Haymaker in the Maryland Juvenile Championship Stakes for his breeder Victor DiVivo. After a similarly successful 3-year-old campaign, including a victory in the Dancing Count Stakes, Colonel Hill was moved from the Wolfendales' stable and sent to another trainer in New York.

His stay in the Big Apple added little to his resume, however, and before long Colonel Hill was back in Maryland, competing in the claiming ranks.

The Wolfendales claimed him on behalf of clients, and on their own account, several times during the latter phase of his racing career. Ever a valiant campaigner, Colonel Hill raced for seven seasons, compiling a record of 55 starts, nine wins, 15 seconds and eight thirds, and earning $234,120, before the Wolfendales decided it was time for him to call it quits in 1997.

LYDIA A. WILLIAMS

Well, not exactly quits. By that time, Maggie was ready to take him on to his new calling. Now in their seventh year on the local dressage circuit, the aging gelding and young rider have steadily moved up the ranks. This year, Maggie hopes to compete in rated shows.

"He loves to work," said Maggie. "He has amazing, fluid movement and free gaits. He's light on his feet, and stays on the bit. Plus, he's just so beautiful. I call him a male model."

Maggie's successful experience with Colonel Hill has inspired her to begin working with another of her parents' ex-race horses, stakes winner Smart Sunny. "Mostly, it's been a lot of fun," said Maggie.

MID-ATLANTIC VETS TAKE EARLY LEAD IN AAEP CONTEST

Veterinary practitioners from within the Mid-Atlantic region swept the first two legs of the American Association of Equine Practitioners "My Vet Matters" contest.

Dr. Ellen Hoots of Willow Spring, N.C., took honors in January, and Dr. Steven Bokman of Englishtown, N.J., was the winner for February.

A winner will be chosen each month through the end of October in the contest designed to highlight the AAEP's 50th anniversary. The competition is an opportunity for the AAEP to recognize its outstanding members.

Both the horse owner who submits the entry and the veterinarian receive a prize package containing equine health and nutrition items and apparel.

Winning entries from each month are eligible for a grand prize to be awarded in November. The grand prize includes two tickets each to the 2005 Kentucky Derby, along with airfare and hotel accommodations.

Entries, in 500 words or less, may be e-mailed to Sally Baker, AAEP director of public relations, at sbaker@aaep.org or mailed to: AAEP, 4075 Iron Works Parkway, Lexington, Ky. 40511.

WITH ANTICIPATION RETIRED

With Anticipation, the George Strawbridge-bred-and-owned turf star who ranks as the third-leading Pennsylvania-bred money-earner of all time, injured himself while training in Florida this winter and has been retired.

With Anticipation (1995, Relaunch—Fran's Valentine, by Saros-GB) earned $2,660,543 during a career that encompassed 48 starts, 15 wins, nine seconds and eight thirds. He has to his credit five Grade 1 victories: the Sword Dancer Invitational Handicap at Saratoga (twice), the Man o' War Stakes at Belmont Park (twice), and the United Nations Handicap at Monmouth.

Trained throughout his career by Jonathan Sheppard, With Anticipation made one start this season, finishing third in an allowance race at Gulfstream on February 5. He injured himself three days before his scheduled appearance in the February 22 Gulfstream Park Breeders' Cup Handicap-G1.

IN MEMORIAM

JEAN BRADLEY

Jean B. Bradley, a longtime Maryland horsewoman, died February 9.

Mrs. Bradley's late husband, Donald C. Bradley, was renowned as a trainer, amateur rider, polo player and show rider. The couple met as students at the University of Maryland and had been married nearly 50 years at the time of Mr. Bradley's death in 1985.

JOSEPH BRAGLIO

Joseph Braglio, who raced horses in Maryland a number of years ago, died February 6 at age 92. Mr. Braglio was a former tavern owner and founder of the Baltimore County Licensed Beverage Association.

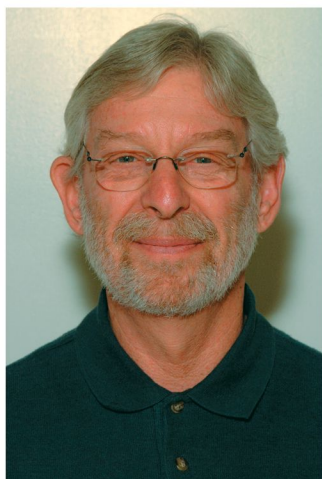

AL CARPENITO

Al Carpenito, one of the region's most successful owners, died February 11. The Holmdel, N.J., resident was 60 years old.

Campaigning in the colors of his wife, Noreen Carpenito, the Carpenito stable enjoyed major victories with the likes of Pennsylvania-bred champion Devil's Honor, In Contention (the only horse to compete in all three Triple Crown races in 1996), Prime Directive (Saratoga Special S-G2, etc.) and Cowdin Stakes-G2 winners Old Tascosa and Just a Cat.

"Horses were Al's passion," said Cynthia Reese, who with her husband Walter Reese trained for the Carpenitos for many years.

Proprietor of R. J. B. Knitting Mill in Perth Amboy, N.J., Mr. Carpenito began racing homebreds in the early 1980s and in the 1990s upgraded his stable with young horses bought at auction. Devil's Honor was purchased by Walter Reese for $35,000 at the 1995 Fasig-Tipton Midlantic 2-year-olds in training sale. The following year the son of Devil's Bag became the first Pennsylvania-bred to win the Pennsylvania Derby-G3 (defeating Formal Gold). During his career Devil's Honor won or placed in a total of 17 added-money races, for earnings of $809,916.

Bernard Feldman

BERNARD FELDMAN

Bernard (Bernie) F. Feldman of Check, Va., 66, professor of biomedical sciences and pathobiology in the Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine at Virginia Tech, was killed in an automobile accident on February 19.

Dr. Feldman was an internationally recognized clinical pathologist and hematologist who joined the faculty of the Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine in 1990. For the past 14 years he taught and mentored DVM and graduate students, and directed the Veterinary Clinical Diagnostics, Clinical Pathology and Comparative Hemostasis Laboratories in the Veterinary Teaching Hospital.

In the mid-1990s, Dr. Feldman led efforts to create the Companion Animal Blood Bank that serviced veterinary practices throughout the two states. He served as the president of the Virginia Tech Faculty Association from 1992 to '93.

A former captain in the U.S. Air Force, Feldman earned his DVM degree from the University of Illinois. He earned his Ph.D. in comparative pathology from the University of California at Davis, where he also served as a National Institutes of Health Fellow in Clinical Pathology. Feldman served on the faculty at UC-Davis for 22 years.

Dr. Feldman was editor of several national and international research journals, published more than 300 manuscripts, wrote one book and edited two others, lectured in 27 foreign countries, and received numerous awards for excellence in teaching and research.

PHIL HATHAWAY

E. Phillips Hathaway, 83, a steeplechase owner in Maryland, died February 6.

Campaigning under the banner of Phoenix Stable, a partnership with Francis N. Iglehart, Mr. Hathaway celebrated important victories with Riff (1999 Maryland Million Steeplechase) and Wood Whistle (2002 Radnor Hunt Cup).

Mr. Hathaway, an investment banker by profession, was a decorated World War II aviator and longtime president of the Middendorf Foundation, which supports educational and health-related organizations throughout Maryland.

LAURA NEWMAN

Laura Lee Newman, one of the first licensed female riders in the U.S., died December 13 at age 66. Ms. Newman rode races at Charles Town, Delaware Park and the Maryland tracks after launching her career in the late 1960s.

MARK STEVENSON

Winner's circle photos are rare enough in the horse business, but Pennsylvania horseman Mark Edward Stevenson was blessed twice in one day at Delaware Park in 2003, when homebreds Willing Maid and Card and Flowers both won—on his birthday.

"He just never gave up on his horses, and when two of his babies won on his birthday, well, that was a magical day for him," recalled his wife of 30 years, Joanne.

A horse owner and breeder for more than 30 years, Mr. Stevenson died on February 11, at the age of 52.

As the owner of Stevenson Builders, Inc., in Kennett Square, Pa., Mr. Stevenson rebuilt or renovated many historic structures on horse farms in the Unionville area.

"While he was working on Mrs. Joseph Walker's carriage house, he came across a collection of horse photographs, old stallion photos from the 1920s," said Josh Pons of Country Life Farm in Maryland. "Workmen on the job before him were throwing them away. He knew the photos were valuable and saved them. He just had a love for anything to do with horses. One of his legacies will be all the beautiful horse barns in this region that will stand for years because of his workmanship."

In recent years, Mr. Stevenson had upgraded his breeding stock, sending mares he bought at Keeneland and Timonium to the best stallions in the region. In 2003, he and Joanne bought a 40-acre farm south of Unionville. Joanne Stevenson intends to continue their Thoroughbred operation on the new farm with the help and encouragement from their son Jason, currently in college in nearby Philadelphia.

A memorial fund in Mr. Stevenson's honor has been established at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center.

ERNEST WALTERS

Ernest E. Walters, 76, a widely accomplished artist and writer who had a brief career training race horses in Maryland in the late 1950s and early '60s, died February 25.

STUART HAMAN

Mid-Atlantic region has hot prospects for Derby Day

Mid-Atlantic-bred stars, both equine and human, could have a big impact on Kentucky Derby Day, May 1.

Smarty Jones, the undefeated, and for a long time strangely unheralded, Pennsylvania-bred colt who finally smashed through the radar screen with his victory in the Rebel Stakes at Oaklawn Park on March 21, is the Mid-Atlantic's strongest Derby hope in many years.

Awesome while winning the Pennsylvania Nursery against state-breds last fall, Smarty Jones has kept exactly to the route planned by owners Roy and Pat Chapman and trainer John Servis. His final prep on the road to the first Saturday in May is expected to be the $1 million Arkansas Derby on April 10. If the ultimate dream comes true, Smarty Jones will be the first Mid-Atlantic-bred to win the Kentucky Derby since PA-bred Lil E Tee in 1992.

Hopefully, some of the millions who gather in front of TV sets to watch the Derby will stay around and change channels for the two-hour special, Thoroughbred: Born to Race, on Animal Planet at 8 p.m. (and again at 11 p.m.). Those who do should be issued a warning: They are at serious risk of falling in love.

The two-hour show is a patchwork of segments from Animal Planet's 13-part series Thoroughbred that documents day-to-day life on the Boniface family's Bonita Farm, a major breeding and training operation in Darlington, Md.

Thoroughbred first aired in the spring of 2001 and has been in and out of rotation on the Animal Planet schedule since then. It looked like a sure-fire success when previewed in Washington, D.C., three years ago, but ratings were disappointing—and certainly not helped by abrupt and frequent changes in the show times.

Now Animal Planet is attempting to give the concept a second chance. Jeanie Vink, who directed the Thoroughbred series and is executive producer of the two-hour special, said the new show emphasizes racing (rather than farm scenes). Its debut on Derby day was specially planned to help the show "pop out of the schedule. Hopefully, people will see this, and get hooked," said Vink.

Animal Planet is considering more Thoroughbred racing-related shows, if this one catches on. "We've talked about doing some shows related to the Triple Crown," said Vink. Animal Planet would approach the Triple Crown races differently from the networks, as Vink explained it. "We would try to get more behind the scenes."

That kind of national TV exposure would certainly be a boost—especially if a Mid-Atlantic-bred happened to win the Triple Crown.

BRUSHWOOD BUYS (AND SELLS) ONLY THE BEST

World-class bloodlines are the bottom line at Elizabeth Moran's 260-acre enclave in Malvern, Pa., represented in 2003 by the $1.1-million top-priced Mid-Atlantic-bred auction yearling, as well as European 3-year-old filly champion Russian Rhythm.

Story by Joe Clancy Jr.

Photographs by Barrie B. Reightler

Sons and daughters of Storm Cat, A.P. Indy, Pulpit, Street Cry (Ire), Distorted Humor, High Yield, Giant's Causeway take some sun in a paddock, canter up a long hill while testing their legs, nibble at the beginnings of lush spring grass, rest in a stall. Broodmares with ties to racing's elite walk slowly while carrying their priceless foals through the final days.

The bloodlines at Brushwood Stable would be at home at any premier breeding establishment. And so, when it comes to quality Thoroughbreds, would the Pennsylvania farm's owner Betty Moran.

She breeds, sells, buys, selects some of the world's finest Thoroughbreds—not from a base in Lexington, Kildare or Newmarket. The horses say different, but Brushwood's address reads Malvern, Pa.

Though Moran can well afford to keep her breeding program to herself, her strategy for Thoroughbred success involves frequent use of the sales market.

She purchases weanlings, yearlings and broodmares at the world's major sales by acting on pedigree research, conformation study and instinct. She buys to pinhook or to add to her broodmare band (some 26 strong) or her racing stable (now at 20).

The Brushwood name can just as likely be seen on the other side of the ledger. As a consignor, through Kentucky-based Eaton Sales, Moran sold a $2.5 million colt in 2000 and a $5.5 million colt in 2001, plus others in the six-figure and seven-figure categories.

In 2003 Brushwood was represented as a breeder by European 3-year-old filly champion Russian Rhythm, sold as a weanling for $370,000 at the Keeneland November sale.

Brushwood sold Russian Rhythm's half-brother (by Rahy) for $1.1 million at the 2003 Keeneland September Yearling sale, the highest auction price for any Mid-Atlantic-bred last season.

"It's a challenge," Moran said of the sales game. "Say you raise one you bred out of one of your best mares. To see them sell well is as good as going to the races and doing well.”

Elizabeth Moran holds one of the stars of her 2004 foal crop—a filly by Storm Cat out of top race mare Excellent Meeting.

And Moran has done well at the races. She won the 1985 Belmont Stakes with Creme Fraiche, a yearling purchase who bankrolled more than $4 million. Brushwood’s current stable star is $600,000-earner Kicken Kris, a Michael Matz trainee she purchased as a yearling at Keeneland. Other horses are with Bill Mott, Christophe Clement, Gregg McCarron, her son Michael Moran and in Europe.

Broodmares are housed on the Bryn Clovis annex, located directly across the road from the core of the Brushwood property, the family home that Moran inherited from her father. Belmont Stakes winner Creme Fraiche, who fueled the farm expansion in the 1980s, is memorialized with a gravesite under the trees at far right.

Still, the sales action captures Moran's attention. As a buyer, she studies pedigrees and works on an already sharp eye for conformation. Eaton's Reiley McDonald assists, as does Moran's son-in-law Franny Abbott.

Like any good shopper, Moran knows what she wants and often acts alone.

"You look for good conformation for sure, but I do like good pedigree," she said. "You're going to pay a lot. I could turn around and pinhook more of them, but I don't do that much. Franny and I put our heads together and come up with a plan—we know which ones we are going to look at long before we get there."

Moran spent $400,000 on Kicken Kris in 2001 and signed a $1.8 million ticket on an Unbridled—Storm Alert yearling colt last year. Named Saffir, that colt is in early work in Florida. In early March, Brushwood's yearling barn housed eight youngsters—some homebreds and some purchases. Five are headed to the summer sales market and three will race in Brushwood's green and blue silks.

Ever the buyer—and seller—Moran studies each one.

"This guy is growing nicely. This is our youngest one. He's a little close behind, but I think he will square up. Watch this one walk—isn't he great?"

"Has the blacksmith seen this one?"

One new yearling grabs Moran's attention—just as he did last year in the sales ring. The dark bay has a wide blaze, three white socks, a presence that all but screams "look at me"—and a $375,000 receipt (from Keeneland November) in the desk drawer. A son of Danehill Dancer and the Arazi mare Glint in Her Eye, the colt will stay with Brushwood to race—possibly with Michael Stoute in England.

"He was my favorite in the sale and I was prepared to spend much more than I did," she said. "I just love him, everything about him. I don't think there's ever been a horse at the sale that I fell in love with like this one. It's not the face, none of that. He walked right. He's got a nice step. Look how he oversteps himself."

The young horse walks like a championship boxer—proud and assertive—as he heads to the field with his seven friends. Still, it’s tough to get excited about a small furry horse with dirt on his nose.

Farm manager Brooks Adams (left) and his assistant, Eric Delfyette, lead yearlings to turnout. The yearling barn is on the site of the main Brushwood property, which Moran inherited from her father Claude Ranney.

“She’s something you really can’t buy”—
Betty Moran, on her Storm Cat filly out of Excellent Meeting.

Unless you’re Betty Moran. The Danehill Dancer was the last of the eight to go past, and Moran talked about each like a newscaster reciting the headlines. She rattled off prices, reasons, future plans. She is not a hands-off owner.

“I don’t come out here and pat them, kiss them and hug them,” she said. “They are stock certificates. I want them to be well taken care of, but it’s for business reasons.”

Of the eight youngsters on the 260-acre farm, three (the Danehill Dancer colt, a Storm Cat filly and a Distorted Humor colt) will stay. The others, all homebreds, will be sold.

The Brushwood breeding program is nothing but first-class, thanks to a constantly culled and even-more-constantly upgraded broodmare band. The ladies of Brushwood represent everything from European turf blood to all-American race track form.

Moran bought $1.4 million-earner Excellent Meeting privately from California breeders John and Betty Mabree in 2000, and has bred the mare to Storm Cat twice. A 2-year-old colt, of whom Moran still owns 25 percent, is training in Ireland and a newly born filly is at Brushwood. Moran isn’t selling.

“By Storm Cat out of a mare who was that good at the races? What’s that worth at the sales?” Moran said. “She’s correct, she’s very well-bred, obviously. This little filly would bring the world at the sales, but I will keep her to race, hopefully successfully, and then I will have a wonderful broodmare down the road. She’s something you really can’t buy.”

So are most of the rest. Mares such as La Affirmed (dam of five stakes horses, including Brushwood-bred group winners Bernstein and Della Francesca) and her daughter Layounne are priceless commodities. Russian Rhythm’s dam Balistroika (by Nijinsky II), and multiple Grade 1 winner Catinca go to the world’s best stallions. Moran owns shares in A.P. Indy, Danzig, Gone West, Kingmambo, Seeking the Gold and Storm Cat, among others.

Moran doesn’t let sentiment affect her choices when it comes to broodmares. If a mare doesn’t produce to the standard Brushwood needs, she will most likely be sold. The same goes for a filly on the race track.

Capitano—2003 Juvenile

“One of my biggest theories is if it’s not going to work, put them in foal and say goodbye in November,” she said. “I’m not going to deal with that. They’ve got to be good or I don’t want them.”

The two worlds of classy mares and dominant sires collide to form a Thoroughbred factory that has produced the likes of last year’s One Thousand Guineas-G1 winner Russian Rhythm, $1 million-earner High Yield, Grade 2 winner Della Francesca, and many others. Last year’s stars also included Capitano, a son of Belong to Me and the Tabasco Cat mare Heavenly Cat sold for a relatively modest $53,000 at the 2002 Keeneland September Yearling sale. Capitano finished second in two graded stakes at 2 in California last season and was weighted at 111 pounds on the Experimental Handicap.

Alajwad, a Storm Cat—La Affirmed colt (thus a full brother to Bernstein) sent the light bulbs all the way to $5.5 million at Keeneland September in 2001. The horse has won twice, and could blossom into a star. Moran owns a host of his relatives.

“It’s the same as the art world. You want a Monet or Munnings, but the little guys step up and do well too sometimes, so you never know,” said Moran. “Some of them get sold, some of them get kept. If we have an older mare like La Affirmed (who is 21) and she has a daughter we’re probably going to keep the daughter so we can keep the family going.”

Moran’s breeding operation includes what amounts to two divisions—mares who stay in Kentucky and others who return to Pennsylvania to have their foals. The Kentucky division, at Indian Hill Farm, co-owned with McDonald and Mickey and Karen Taylor (of Seattle Slew fame) is overseen by McDonald, while longtime employee Brooks

Adams manages the Pennsylvania farm. Sales prepping is done by Eaton in Kentucky, though Brushwood handles its share of responsibility—including foaling and the early weanling/yearling days.

“People years ago told me to watch young horses out in the field—you’ll be able to tell a lot,” said Moran, who began breeding and raising flat race horses at Brushwood in the late 1970s, after starting out as a steeplechase owner. “How they run in the field is a very good test. Russian Rhythm’s brother was worth endless amounts of money because I knew him in the field. I’ve never had a horse on this farm who could do what he did.”

John Ferguson, acting as agent for Sheikh Mohammed, was the purchaser of last year’s top sales yearling. Thinking business, Moran quickly pointed out that she owns the mare and her current yearling colt by Rahy.

For all her sales savvy, Moran isn’t all bottom line. A renowned philanthropist who supports numerous causes, she reserves a 26-acre field for retirees at Brushwood and keeps two retired mares—the Rokeby-bred Irish classic winner Forest Flower and Northern Dancer’s half-sister Born a Lady—in the farm’s ever-changing mix. Creme Fraiche died last year and is buried on the farm, leaving steeplechaser Tostadero, multiple stakes winner Glenbarra and champion show horse Ring Bearer meandering the retiree field. Forest Flower and Born a Lady share a big field with several mares waiting to foal.

“I like knowing they are there,” she said. “They deserve a home after they’ve done their jobs. I think the older mares lend some history to things. I bought them for the blood, and it’s still there.” In Pennsylvania. ★

LEADING THE WAY IN EQUINE NUTRITION

Virginia Tech's Middleburg Agricultural Research Center—better known as MARE—is the only place in the world where equine nutritional studies are carried out in a pasture setting. Story by Frederick N. Rasmussen.

Photographs by Janet Hitchen

Amid the rolling hills just outside Middleburg, Va., lies a remarkable facility, one that lays claim to being the only place in the world where equine nutritional studies are carried out in a pasture setting.

It's Virginia Tech's Middleburg Agricultural Research and Extension Center—also known as MARE—where a breeding operation has been steadily building on its success.

Graduate and postdoctoral students come from around the world to study nutrition at the center, focusing on a band of donated Thoroughbreds. An experienced staff leads the students in their work, which will pay off in October with the center's 13th annual yearling auction.

The combination of superior nutrition and generous giving is clearly a winning formula. A star example was Cup Custard, one of the center's foundation mares, who died last year at age 17. An unraced daughter of Secretariat, out of a Nijinsky II mare, Cup Custard is a 100 percent producer, with six winners from six foals of racing age. She has to her credit two stakes horses, and two earners of more than $100,000.

"She was the backbone of what we sold here for years," said Catherine C. Larmore, the center's director of community relations. Cup Custard's last foal, a filly by Secret Hello, was born last spring and is headed for this fall's auction.

The three-stallion lineup at MARE includes Fred Astaire (Nijinsky II—Late Bloomer, by Stage Door Johnny), Virginia's leading sire from 1994 to '98.

Fred Astaire is the sire of at least 14 stakes winners, one of them a champion in Panama, and has progeny earnings approaching $12 million.

Other stallions for 2004 include Ball's Bluff, who sired the third-place finisher in last year's $40,000-added M. Tyson Gilpin Stakes at Delaware Park, and Forest Service. Ball's Bluff (Cox's Ridge—Brackish, by Alleged; second dam Change Water) was donated in 1996, and Forest Service (Woodman—Ready Jet Go, by Northjet-Ire) arrived in 2002. His first crop is due this spring.

MARE notes that its "graduates," through the 2000 racing season, earned more than $200,000 on the flat and over fences, which is far beyond their original sales price.

This season, the farm has 51 broodmares on its 420 acres, set in the verdant rolling hills and meadows of Loudoun County, Va., about 45 miles west of Washington, D.C., in the heart of Virginia hunt country. In addition to the customary collection of barns and outbuildings, the farm contains classrooms and laboratories.

Dr. Burt Staniar, DVM, and Kibby Treiber perform measurements as part of a study. The center conducts studies in “such a way that the average horseman can understand them,” said VTA field director Mark Deane.

The center owes its existence to renowned Virginia horseman and philanthropist Paul Mellon, who donated the farm in 1949 to Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University—now Virginia Tech.

Thoroughbreds, however, are relative late-comers to the facility. During its first few decades, the Virginia Forage Research Station and later the Agricultural Experiment Station, as it was then known, focused its research entirely on beef cattle production and forage.

Then in 1986, it was decided to shift the focus of research from beef cattle to Thoroughbreds.

Mellon agreed and endowed a professorship in equine research while Virginia Tech agreed to obtain matching funds for new buildings, equipment and additional staff. A new name—MARE Center—came in 1993, when the university abandoned the old Agricultural Experiment Station terminology.

While new buildings and facilities went up, former fescue pastures used by grazing cattle were plowed under and replaced by bluegrass and clover for horses.

In 1988, David S. Kronfeld, Ph.D., a veterinarian, was named the center’s director. He was also the first recipient of the Paul Mellon Distinguished Professor of Agriculture Chair at MARE.

The native New Zealander, whose equine interests date from his teenage years, had spent most of his professional career working with dairy cows. He recalled coming to this “beautiful farm” when he was interviewed by Mellon.

“Mr. Mellon was very interested in the conservation and the study of pasture systems. He was also interested in improving the performance of horses and at the same time enhancing and protecting the land,” Kronfeld said. “And he gave me the opportunity to do something I’ve always wanted. It was the chance at a second childhood.”

Mark Deane, field director for the Virginia Thoroughbred Association and a supporter of the center, said that MARE captures “a blend of both worlds, the horse world and the scientific world.” The science comes in the meticulous attention to nutrition, particularly the use of pasture in the young horse’s diet. Foals are born late, at the peak of grass season, so that the center is “creating a better horse in the long run.”

Yearlings, produced from mares and stallions donated to the center, are auctioned each fall, with proceeds going to support research.

“MARE’s secret” is breeding mares in May and June, which goes a long way in producing a better yearling.

Tania Cubitt, 24, a student at the center, explained that “MARE’s secret” is breeding mares in May and June, which goes a long way in producing a better yearling.

“They’re born in the spring and have the nutritional benefits of our spring and summer pastures,” she said. “By auction time, they’re not all filled out and are still growing within healthy limits,” she said.

“And buyers can see their natural structure and what they will turn into,” Larmore added.

Cubitt said she was drawn to MARE by two things: Dr. Kronfeld, who is one of the world’s most renowned equine specialists, and research that is carried out against the backdrop of a working farm.

Cubitt, a Brisbane, Australia, native who is earning a master’s degree in equine nutrition and growth, said that in addition to their regular work the students are heavily involved in the yearling auction.

“We get abundant advice and help from the permanent staff. I worked on yearling prep and prepared ads for the auction. I arranged chores and feeding schedules. You pick up a lot of practical management skills working on a real farm,” Cubitt said.

That goes to the heart of the farm’s mission, according to Deane, who helps with the auction. “The important thing is they’re getting young college students into our business. . . They do a great job with the horses.”

Not the least among the center’s assets are its generous donors. Paul Mellon donated Cup Custard, whose notable offspring include three times stakes-placed Wingate (1995, by Gettysburg Address), a winner of $132,078, 2003 stakes-placed Afternoon Clinic (2001, by Ball’s Bluff) and Chairman’s Delight (1996, by Chenin Blanc), a winner of $132,954.

Fred Astaire, the new stallion, was a gift from Albemarle Stud. “During the ’90s, they pushed harder than anybody to get the breeding going,” Deane said of Albemarle. “This is a farm that’s worked really hard to push the industry forward in Virginia.”

Other donors have included Hickory Tree Farm and Paul Fout.

Deane recently donated a mare, Justasiam, by Oh Say, in foal to a Broad Brush stallion from New York. At the sale, “the person can buy a Virginia-bred plus a New York-sired horse,” he said.

“I see the importance of what they are trying to do. They’re trying to help me as a horseman,” Deane said in explaining why the program merits horsemen’s generous support. He added that the quality of the broodmares at the center is steadily improving.

Attention to temperament is another key to raising quality horses. Repeat buyers like the “quiet yearlings” that MARE seems to regularly produce, Larmore said. The maintenance of the herd is closely charted, said Larmore, who added that donations of high-strung studs are discouraged.

“We cull mares that are not reproductively efficient or have gotten too old while acquiring new mares into the program. The herd has improved and we are somewhat selective,” Larmore said. Broodmares on the farm range in age from 5 to 18.

“We study and work on reproductive efficiency and have decided not to breed the mares when they’re over 20,” added Cubitt.

All the science and horsemanship come together in the October sale, which typically markets about 25 yearlings.

The average for last year’s auction was $2,600, which makes this sale something of a bargain for someone interested in purchasing a well-reared Thoroughbred. The 2003 sale grossed $63,950. "We sell all of them, and they're real bargains," Larmore said.

Buyers begin arriving at MARE several days before the October auction to study the yearlings. Sales day draws hundreds of people to the farm.

Most of the horses are not bound for the track. The center's philosophy is attractive to hunter/jumper enthusiasts as well.

"A lot of our horses go to performing interests, between 5 percent and 10 percent race, while the remainder are hunters or jumpers," Cubitt said. "We have high-end race horses and high-end performing horses."

"The average buyer is purchasing them to train or resell, and they generally fall into three groups. A person who wants a reliable horse, a turnover-type, or a potential race horse," Larmore added.

The MARE center is part of the legacy of Virginia horseman and philanthropist Paul Mellon.

"What they're getting is a quality animal. It's a business opportunity for them," Cubitt said.

The auction's slogan—"Virginia Tech... where breeding and feeding quality Thoroughbreds is a science"—is truly reflective of the work that takes place there.

"If our bloodstock has better pedigree coupled with superb nutrition and growth, we get better horses," Cubitt explained.

Two years ago, Thoroughbred twins were born, sired by Ball's Bluff out of Joanz Got Da Blues.

The pair—a filly nicknamed Rhythm, and a colt, Blues—"were born of a maiden mare, and to be carried full-term is quite unusual," Cubitt said.

"Their growth and progress has been that of a normal single foal," Larmore said.

From the time of their birth until they were sold, these Thoroughbreds, like all the rest, had been subjects of intense scrutiny in nutrition, growth, exercise, health and performance.

Additionally, 12 Arabians on the farm are subjects of endurance testing.

Deane emphasized that the center is a precious, albeit underused, resource on equine nutrition and breeding. "You've got this beautiful facility, and in certain ways it goes to waste," he said. The facility can show horsemen that "if they can do everything economically and in the right way, they can stay in the business."

The center does its studies "in such a way that the average horseman can understand them," Deane said.

Advice is free for the taking—some is even posted on fence posts around the farm. The signs display a trace of humor while issuing a stern and probably medically useful warning to hikers from a nearby trail and others who might be attracted to the animals standing in the field: "Don't Feed Fingers to Horses." ★

PROGRAM

Searching for the bottom line on super-producer Foufa

Leading Maryland breeders Sondra and Howard Bender have found a rare gem, indeed, in their broodmare Foufa (1983, Storm Bird—Afifa, by Dewan).

In 2003, for the second year in a row, Foufa was represented by three stakes winners. Only two mares in the world could claim that achievement last year. The other was Sultan's Light, whose trio of stakes winners won restricted stakes at Suffolk Downs.

Foufa's 2003 stars were Foufa's Warrior (a son of Jade Hunter), Full Brush (by Broad Brush) and Certantee (by Known Fact). In addition, her daughter Media Access placed in three stakes last year.

Foufa is also the dam of two earlier stakes winners: Maryland Moon ($420,223) and the aforementioned Media Access. Within a 13-year span she produced nine winners, including five stakes winners, by nine different sires. Her offspring have earned $1.8 million, and counting.

Are there some prophetic inbreeding or nicks working here? Are the Benders breeding geniuses? Is Foufa just an unexplainable phenomenon?

Foufa's stakes winners were sired by Al Mamoon, Broad Brush, Devil's Bag, Jade Hunter and Known Fact. It's very difficult to find a commonality among any of these sires to prove a "key" to Foufa.

Al Mamoon was a borderline useful sire in California, and one is inclined to credit any mare who can get a stakes winner by him, so that's one for Foufa. The other four are all successful sires, some more than others, but at the time of the mating, all were mid-priced proven Kentucky sires, the ideal hunting grounds for many a successful breeder.

Al Mamoon's sire Believe It and Known Fact are bred similarly. Believe It was by In Reality out of a mare by Buckpasser (by Tom Fool), while Known Fact was a son of In Reality out of a mare by Tim Tam (by Tom Fool). But if we look at Broad Brush, Devil's Bag and Jade Hunter, we don't see anything like that.

On the other hand, Broad Brush is inbred to *Turn-to; Devil's Bag goes back in male line to Hail to Reason, by *Turn-to; and Al Mamoon's second dam is by Hail to Reason. However, neither Known Fact nor Jade Hunter has *Turn-to in his pedigree. Maryland Moon is 4x4 to Bold Ruler. Media Access (by Devil's Bag) is 4x5 to Almahmoud. Foufa's Warrior is 5x3 Northern Dancer, and 4x7x6 Native Dancer. Full Brush and Certantee are outcrosses.

In general, Foufa seems to be one of those "incubator" type mares whose offspring take on the aptitude of their sires rather than their dams.

The Benders purchased Foufa for $90,000 at the 1989 Keeneland January sale, with her second foal, Maryland Moon (by Al Mamoon), in utero.

Foufa was the second foal out of her dam, the classy Afifa,

Afifa was a disappointment as a broodmare, however, since her best of five winners, Moscow

Society (a colt by Nijinsky II), was merely listed stakes-placed in England with earnings of $14,791. Afifa's only North American winner was our protagonist, Foufa, from the first crop of English champion 2-year-old Storm Bird. Foufa, her dam's best racing daughter, won one race at 3 and $11,550—before earning fame and fortune as a broodmare.

On May 12, 1989, several months after her arrival at the Benders' Glade Valley Farms in Frederick, Md., Foufa delivered Maryland Moon. Something of a late bloomer, Maryland Moon was only placed at 2, but at 3 won or placed in six stakes, including a victory in the Governor's Cup Stakes at Laurel, and a runner-up performance in the Rutgers Handicap-G3 at Meadowlands.

At 4, Maryland Moon won the Chieftain and Find Handicaps, and was second in the Washington, D.C., International Mile Stakes-G1 and the Pennsylvania Governor's Cup. This was obviously a serious middle distance turf horse, like his dad. At 5, Maryland Moon placed third in three stakes, and raced two more years to amass a total of $420,223 from 40 starts, with seven wins. So Foufa was now fully paid for, and then some.

In 1990, Foufa produced Don's Fan, a colt (later gelded) by Don's Choice. Don's Fan earned his $63,241 the hard way, through 78 starts over six years, with eight wins. Unlike his older brother, Don's Fan liked to sprint and he liked the dirt. Foufa's 1991 filly, Private Pouf, by Private Terms, won two races at 4 going longer on the dirt, and earned $28,025. As a broodmare, she's produced the stakes-placed winner Private Opening, a 1999 gelding by Opening Verse.

Foufa's next foal was the unplaced King Fou, a 1992 gelding by King's Nest. After him came Wethepeople, a 1993 filly by Opening Verse. Unraced at 2, she showed promise, winning three of 13 starts at 3 and $48,937, but died at 4.

In 1994, Foufa was barren, and if you believe the theory that the foal born after a barren year has certain advantages, note that Foufa's next baby was Full Brush, a Broad Brush colt (also gelded) born in 1995. Placed in a pair of stakes at 2, Full Brush broke his maiden at 3 and has since won nine races and won or placed in a dozen stakes. Talk about later-maturing—Full Brush placed again in stakes at 5 and 6, and won his first black-type event at 7, when scoring in the Taking Risks Stakes at Timonium, a race he liked enough to come back and win again in 2003. Although his stakes wins came in restricted state-bred events, Full Brush placed third in last year's Baltimore Breeders' Cup Handicap-G3 at Pimlico.

Full Brush is the only one of Foufa's stakes winners not to have won stakes in the Benders' name. He was claimed from them for $50,000 in March of his 7-year-old season.

Following Full Brush, in 1996, Foufa produced Travelling, a filly by Miswaki who, although unraced, has a 3-year-old filly by With Approval named Air Travel, and a current 2-year-old by El Prado (Ire) named El Viaje.

In 1997, Foufa foaled Certantee, a gelded son of Known Fact. Unraced at 2, Certantee placed in two stakes at 3, and at 5 won the John D. Schapiro Memorial Breeders' Cup Handicap at Laurel. Last year at 6, Certantee won the restricted Find Handicap, and his earnings stand at $273,160, with seven wins from 27 starts.

Foufa's next foal was Media Access, a 1998 filly by Devil's Bag. Unraced at 2, Media Access won four races at 3, including the Miss Liberty Stakes going a mile and a sixteenth on the grass at the Meadowlands. At 4, Media Access was second or third in three stakes, and added another three stakes placings at 5 in 2003. So far, she has four wins in 24 starts and $211,372.

Following Media Access, Foufa dropped Maryland Mist, by Cozzene. This filly has been unplaced in six starts with earnings of $4,250.

In 2000, Foufa produced a colt (later gelded) by Jade Hunter whom the Benders proudly named Foufa's Warrior. He won both his starts at 2, including the Maryland Juvenile Championship Stakes. Foufa's Warrior's big win last year at 3 was the Kent Breeders' Cup Stakes-G3, which he took with a flourish, setting a new course record of 1:47.44 for nine furlongs at Delaware Park. He also placed second in the Deputed Testimony Stakes, and third in the Illinois Derby-G2, Crown Royal American Turf Stakes-G3 and Humphrey S. Finney Stakes. This is a good horse who appears to have moved up when put on the grass.

In 2001, Foufa produced the colt Finally Home, by Grand Slam. He's unraced to date, as is Foufa's 2002 filly by Jade Hunter, a full sister to Foufa's Warrior named Foufa's Hunter.

While she only missed once in her first 15 years of production, Foufa was empty for 2003 and 2004. Surely that's forgivable at this point in her life.

Now for Foufa's pedigree. She's by Storm Bird (by Northern Dancer, dam by New Providence) out of a mare by Dewan (by Bold Ruler). Alert readers will recognize that this is a cross very much like that of Storm Bird's two best sons, Storm Cat and Summer Squall—both also out of mares by a son of Bold Ruler (in both cases, Secretariat). Storm Bird's good racing daughter Indian Skimmer was bred similarly, for although her dam was by *Vaguely Noble, her second dam was by Bold Bidder (by Bold Ruler).

Besides Foufa's dam, Afifa, one of the other rare places you can find Dewan nowadays is through his son Glitterman, a good sprinter and sire. Glitterman has another parallel to Afifa in that he stems from the same family. His third dam, Silver Song, was a half-sister to Afifa's dam, Hooplah, both out of the mare Beadah. And Glitterman was out of Moon Glitter, by In Reality, the sire line that produced two of Foufa's stakes winners, Maryland Moon and Certantee.

In fact, Relaunch (and his sister Moon Glitter) both nicked well with Dewan's sire Bold Ruler. To top it off, Glitterman sired his best stakes winner to date, Balto Star, from a mare by Devil's Bag, the sire of Foufa's daughter Media Access.

Foufa and Glitterman may not belong to the same country club, but they sure swim in the same gene pool. ★

Deadly dangers of EPO can't be overemphasized

Illegal blood doping of horses with the human drug Epogen® to enhance performance can have deadly consequences. Epogen or EPO increases stamina by stimulating production of red blood cells that carry oxygen, but, when given to a healthy horse, it can cause a potentially fatal form of anemia—and that may be just the tip of the iceberg.

Scientific research into the other potential side effects of EPO abuse is still under way, but researchers speculate that increased production of red blood cells may cause the blood to sludge, producing blood clots and blocking blood vessels, and it may set into motion a cascade of problems associated with diminished or compromised blood flow.

A synthetic form of the protein erythropoietin produced naturally in the kidneys, EPO (marketed as Procrit) was developed in human medicine to treat anemia (decreased red blood cell production) in patients with kidney disease and those on chemotherapy. Increasing the number of circulating red blood cells in these patients increased the blood's capacity to deliver oxygen to exercising muscles, thereby increasing stamina and delaying fatigue.

Muscles require oxygen to function properly. When muscles are utilized to such an extent that the cardiovascular system cannot keep up with the needed supply of oxygen, a waste product called lactic acid is produced that causes muscle fatigue—the burning you feel when a muscle tires. The greater the amount of circulating red blood cells in the body, the greater is the body's capacity to deliver the needed oxygen; therefore, as long as the oxygen supply is able to keep up with oxygen demand, muscles do not tire.

When they realized EPO could be used in race horses to gain advantage over their rivals, disreputable horsemen soon latched onto the drug as a new way to cheat, but they disregarded its far-reaching effects on the horse.

DANGERS OF EPO

One known side effect of EPO abuse is that the horse's body may attack the synthetic erythropoietin as a foreign invader and destroy natural erythropoietin along with it, or it may shut down its natural production of erythropoietin in the kidneys in response to the administration of EPO. Either way, the result is a fatal form of anemia.

Kenneth McKeever, Ph.D., associate professor of equine exercise physiology at Rutgers University in New Jersey who collaborated with George Maylin, Ph.D., of Cornell University to develop the current test for antibodies to erythropoietin in horses, said, "EPO is not only a hazard to the integrity of the sport, but it is also a hazard to the animal."

He gave the analogy of shooting marbles to what happens to a healthy horse who is doped with EPO: "EPO hits a progenitor cell [immature red blood cell] in the bone marrow and then that cell produces more cells, and those cells produce more cells. So it is amplified. The stimulus is very strong and it can produce a lot of cells, and you can't just turn it on and off. Say you put a bunch of marbles on the floor, and you roll one marble, and it hits another marble, and those two hit two more. Once you start sending that marble through the bunch of marbles, you have a cascade effect."

Given in low doses over a period of weeks, EPO has effects that are not noticeable until about three weeks into the course of treatment, said McKeever. There is no way of knowing how the dosage administered will affect an individual horse until it is too late to reverse the outcome.

McKeever explained that the horse's spleen holds a large reservoir of packed red blood cells—a sort of natural blood-doping mechanism. When he is startled, frightened, or pumped up for competition, the horse gets a jolt of adrenaline that triggers the spleen to dump a concentration of red blood cells into the circulatory system to enable the horse to run faster and longer. Simply, it is the chemical basis of the flight response.

"When the spleen contracts and sends red blood cells into a circulatory system that is already packed with red blood cells from administration of Epogen, the blood thickens and has the potential to start throwing clots," McKeever warned.

Blood thickening is yet to be proven scientifically in the horse, but it is true in other species. "What they assume in humans, and I don't know if they have reported this yet in the horse, is that you get blood that is very, very thick, and the thicker the blood, the harder it is to pump through the cardiovascular system," McKeever said. "In people who purportedly have died from Epogen misuse, their blood becomes so thick that they start either forming clots or blocking small blood vessels in places like the heart, the brain and the kidneys.

"I don't know anyone who has reported it but, if there is small vessel damage within the digestive tract, colic is certainly something [to consider]. . . that's putting two and two together, but I wouldn't rule it out. But, I wouldn't say there is definitely a cause and effect either."

In the trials McKeever and his colleagues performed, they used a very low dose of EPO, but the results were dramatic.

"We've had the packed cell volumes [hematocrit] of those horses wind up in the 70 range, and that is getting pretty close to pushing sludge," he reported. "That was with the minimal dose for a very short period of time. Some people are giving horses a longer course of treatment and a higher dose, so the effects could potentially be even more. Those horses would be prone to throwing clots or having vessels block off. If you block the vessels, then blood pressure is going to go up super high, and that could potentially be a cause of problems.

"Now, if you want pure, wild speculation from there, one of the diseases that has a link to changes in blood pressure is [exercise-induced pulmonary hemorrhage]. So, if you affect the cardiovascular system in that way, we don't know what happens with EIPH in horses that get Epogen. Anything that would raise blood pressure through the roof potentially would have an effect there."

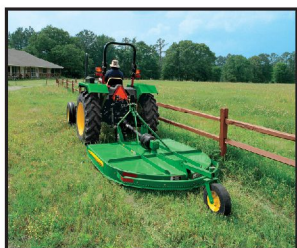

McKeever also speculated that the microcirculatory system of the hoof might be affected by thickening of the blood, setting the horse up for laminitis. "If you look at a horse cross-eyed, he'll founder," he said.

In humans being treated with EPO for anemia, side effects include irregular heartbeat, nausea and vomiting, diarrhea, and increased potassium levels. Patients also are cautioned about taking iron supplements while on the drug. Whether these side effects will correlate to dangerous arrhythmias, gastric distress, or electrolyte imbalances in horses is a task for researchers to determine, along with the effects of EPO's interaction with drugs commonly used in horse racing, such as furosemide (Salix) and phenylbutazone.

TESTING

Current testing for EPO abuse is limited in that it can only detect elevated levels of antibodies produced in response to the drug. According to McKeever, the drug itself has a half-life of just minutes, although its effects may last up to 120 days. This makes it virtually impossible to pinpoint when a horse was administered the drug and by whom.

McKeever is working on a secondary test that he believes will be available in several months. The test focuses on detecting plasma transferrin receptor activity, which occurs within hours of administration of EPO.

"The primary protein in red blood cells is hemoglobin, and hemoglobin has iron in it," McKeever explained. "To get that iron into the developing red blood cell, there are receptors that are floating around in the plasma. Think of a hand floating around, ready to grab an iron molecule. It takes that iron molecule into the bone marrow and into the cells that are being produced, and then shoves it in there to make hemoglobin. Then, those receptors go back out and get more iron. Those plasma transferrin receptors go off within hours of getting an increase in erythropoietin, via an injection, and they stay up for weeks afterward."

If the new test fulfills the expectations of racing commissions, it will provide them with a means to identify trainers who violate the rule prohibiting EPO use or at least hold them accountable if a horse receives the drug on their watch. ★

LAUREL PARK SHOWCASES TRIPLE CROWN HOPEFULS

SEAN CLANCY

They call it the road to the Triple Crown. It's long, arduous and comprised of countless entry and exit ramps. As in most years, those ramps came and went through Laurel Park in February.

Michael Gill's White Mountain Boy won a three-way photo in the $75,000 Goss L. Stryker Stakes for Maryland-breds on February 7. Ridden by Abel Castellano and trained by Phil Schoenthal, the son of Meadowlake remained undefeated while getting his third stakes victory.

Trainer Michael Dickinson peeled the cotton off Tapit for a public work on February 25. The two-time winner, hero of last fall's Laurel Futurity-G3, worked seven furlongs between races in preparation for his anticipated 3-year-old session.

Capac shipped up from Camden, S.C., to win a $25,000 allowance race on February 4. Trained by Mike Bell, the son of Deputy Minister won for the second time in a three-race career. With Jeremy Rose up, Capac cruised through the exercise with bigger things in mind.

Capac's next "big thing" was expected to be the Miracle Wood Stakes on February 28. The highly touted colt went off as the 2-5 favorite but tired to finish fifth of seven in the $40,000 stakes. The Nonsequitur Stable's Water Cannon, under Ramon Dominguez, went from first to fifth and back to first while winning the mile and a sixteenth test.

Michael Dickinson-trained Tapit glided through a seven-furlong workout between races on February 25 at Laurel Park.

Water Cannon, a $37,000 auction purchase campaigned by The Nonsequitur Stable, raised strong hopes with his victory in the Miracle Wood Stakes.

Ole Faunty and jockey Mike Luzzi emerged victorious in the roughly run John B. Campbell Breeders' Cup Handicap.

How good is the gray son of Waquoit?

"I don't think we know yet," trainer Linda Albert said. "At this time of year, if you get one that's even a little bit good you get all excited. The Derby—I guess we haven't totally said no way, but it's unlikely. We'll think about the Preakness if he looked like he was doing good and we saw how the rest of them were going."

History provides the fuel for dreams. In the past, locally campaigned Maryland-breds have made an impact on the Preakness. Two years ago, Magic Weisner finished second in the middle leg for Nancy Alberts. Oliver's Twist nearly upended Timber Country in 1995. And nobody could ever forget Deputed Testamony's upset in 1983.

"We'll go to the Private Terms and see how he handles that and then more than likely the [Federico] Tesio [Stakes] but I'll wait and see how he does first," Albert said. "By the time they get to the Preakness, they've been pounding each other pretty good. Maybe we'll have a nice fresh horse who's getting good right at the right time."

That's more than what was expected of Water Cannon when he was purchased at the Fasig-Tipton Midlantic 2-year-olds in training sale last May. Consigned by Webb Carroll, he went for $37,000.

"We were just thinking we might have a nice little Maryland horse because [Waquoit's son] Wicapi [18 wins, $671,616] is a half-brother to Water Cannon's dam," Albert said. "Wicapi was around for years and really got good when he was 4 or 5 years old. That's when he became a stakes horse, so we looked at this horse as that kind of horse. It's a bonus that he's good right now."

Water Cannon was the 479th horse catalogued in the two-day sale. Albert dog-eared the corner of his page and basically ignored the rest of the catalogue.

Albert gelded Water Cannon shortly after the purchase and two starts before the Miracle Wood, she added blinkers to his equipment card. He's been perfect ever since.

"He was the only horse we liked in the whole sale," Albert said. "It was the easiest thing in the world. We walked up and looked at him about two hours before he sold. We decided what we'd pay for him and he went right in the middle of what we were thinking. It was totally easy."

OUT-OF-STATE RUNNERS SPEED TO TOP PRIZES IN LAUREL'S WINTER SPRINT FEST

There was an invasion in Maryland over President's Day weekend.

The two $200,000 features of Laurel Park's Winter Sprint Fest, the Grade 2 Barbara Fritchie Handicap on February 14, and the Grade 2 General George Handicap two days later, drew a strong contingent of local runners, but it was California-bred Bear Fan and New York-bred Well Fancied, each searching for a first non-restricted stakes win, who swooped in to take the major prizes.

Neither result proved a great surprise. Bear Fan, a 5-year-old daughter of Pine Bluff competing for breeder/co-owner/trainer Wesley Ward and co-owner Peter Fan, was the even-money favorite in the field of nine for the Barbara Fritchie. Six-year-old Well Fancied, sent out by trainer Richard Dutrow Jr. for owners Sanford Goldfarb and Stewart Hoffman, was 3-1 second choice behind the well-backed Badge of Silver (at 7-10) in the General George.

Bear Fan, making her first start outside her home state, was facing a formidable duo in the ultra-consistent Maryland-bred mares Gazillion and Bronze Abe, who had won or placed in a combined eight starts since August, including six stakes. But Bear Fan had a local connection—flying in from California to join her was Ryan Fogelsonger, Maryland's golden boy who moved his tack to the West Coast late last summer. Fogelsonger's decision to return to Maryland coincided with Bear Fan's scheduled start in the Fritchie, and he picked up the mount his first day home.

The seven-furlong Fritchie was hotly contested from the break, and after the first quarter-mile, no more than three lengths separated the entire field. Bear Fan was on the front end of the tightly bunched pack, racing four-wide, when Fogelsonger asked her to go as they rounded the far turn. The bay mare quickly took control, gained a clear lead in midstretch, then held off a late charge by Gazillion to win by a length. Bronze Abe turned in her typical gritty performance—after prompting the pace three-wide the entire trip, she held her place to finish third, a length and a half behind Gazillion.

Bear Fan's final time was 1:23.55. The $120,000 winner's share of the purse boosted her career total to $341,970, and the victory was her fifth in nine lifetime starts.

Edgar Prado, the dominant rider in Maryland during the 1990s, returned to Laurel to pilot Well Fancied in the General George. Prado was not concerned that the gelding was coming off a near three-month layoff—Well Fancied had been working strongly in the mornings.

Well Fancied proved well-conditioned for his first start of the year. Breaking on top in the nine-horse field, he led at every call, turned back the challenge of the talented Badge of Silver, and was never seriously threatened through the stretch. His margin of victory was a length over 15-1 Unforgettable Max, another New York shipper. The 2001 General George winner, Peeping Tom, came from last to finish fourth; Badge of Silver faded to fifth. Final time for the seven furlongs was a sprightly 1:22.49.

Local choice Gators N Bears, coming off a victory in Laurel's Hoover Stakes, completed the trifecta, a length and three-quarters behind the winner. The margin might have been closer had Leo Nechamkin's colt had a better trip. Tucked in on the rail behind the leaders from the start, Gators N Bears, with Rick Bear Fan carried Maryland's returning hero Ryan Fogelsonger to a length score in the tightly contested Barbara Fritchie Handicap.

Well Fancied, a New York-bred making his first start outside his home state, set every fraction en route to victory in the General George Handicap-G2.

Wilson up, had no room to run turning for home.

"Rick said he couldn't get through," said owner/trainer Nechamkin. "When he finally got through he kicked in, but it was just too late." In three graded stakes tries in his last four starts, Gators N Bears has three third-place finishes to his credit.

Dutrow had nothing but praise for Well Fancied. "This horse can do anything. He can come from behind or go to the front. We took a shot at bringing him here and it worked out."

A son of Prosper Fager, Well Fancied has won 11 of his 28 starts for earnings of $759,106. As with Bear Fan, the gelding's trip to Maryland was his first start outside his home state.

AROUND THE OVALS

On paper, the John B. Campbell Breeders' Cup Handicap at Laurel on the undercard of Barbara Fritchie Handicap day, February 14, looked easy. It was Evening Attire's race to lose. The elegant gray was looking to surpass $2 million in lifetime earnings and only racing luck could get him beat in the $150,000 stakes.

And that's exactly what happened.

At the head of the stretch, three horses were in contention for the Valentine's Day prize. Pacesetter Rogue Agent hung tough on the lead, Ole Faunty ranged up on the outside, and odds-on favorite Evening Attire aimed for a fading shot of daylight on the rail.

Jockey Norberto Arroyo on Rogue Agent stymied Evening Attire's bid, forcing him into the rail as hearts leapt into throats. Ole Faunty and jockey Mike Luzzi were home free, drawing off to win by a length and a quarter. The stewards disqualified Rogue Agent and placed him third, moving Evening Attire to second. The near disastrous finish had a very small silver lining—the $30,000 Evening Attire earned for second place was enough for him to reach his $2 million milestone.

At the end of the day, Arroyo was looking at a 15-day suspension, Evening Attire had lost another tough one and Ole Faunty left Laurel with his first stakes victory.

Trained by Elliott Walden, Ole Faunty, a son of Quiet American, won an allowance race earlier at Laurel's winter meet after originally being scheduled to run in the Native Dancer Stakes. The stakes was cancelled due to weather and Walden opted for the allowance race as a door prize.

This time the ship from Kentucky was worth more than a token.

Owned by Pulley-Works Stable, a partnership of cousins Tom VanMeter and Doug Hendrickson, Ole Faunty was also entered for the Dust Commander at Turfway Park the night before the Campbell. Walden decided on the Campbell and shipped the 5-year-old gelding to Maryland for the $90,000 paycheck. ★

"AMAZING" SAGA CONTINUES AT PHILADELPHIA PARK

LINDA DOUGHERTY

The Gallaghers showed plenty of patience and persistence in getting Amazing Philly to the races. She was born to the 3-year-old filly Speak Compelling, who had days before competed in a race at Philadelphia Park.

Trainer Don Reeder was unable to get Speak Compelling to "tuck up" and the reason became obvious early one morning—she was in foal.

"I remember Reeder calling us at 6 a.m. that morning," said Lynda Gallagher. "He said 'Speak Compelling had a foal today,' and I said, 'Was it alive?'"

Amazing Philly was alive, but weighed only 55 pounds. The decision was made to separate her from Speak Compelling and she was sent to Justaplain Farm in Chester County, Pa., which specializes in raising orphan foals.

The Gallaghers and The Jockey Club were unable to determine who the sire of Amazing Philly is, despite numerous blood tests taken from colts who had been stabled near Speak Compelling. Subsequently, The Jockey Club issued a rare "racing permit." Amazing Philly may race as a Thoroughbred, but any foals she produces will not be eligible for registration as Thoroughbreds.

In the two years before her first start, Amazing Philly suffered several physical setbacks that nearly prevented her from racing. The Gallaghers weren't fazed by any of those delays.

"We really wanted to see this through," said Lynda. "We had both a financial and emotional investment in her, and we needed to see what we had. At no time did we have any thoughts of giving up."

When Welsh Spirit captured the third leg of the Snow Bunny starter series for fillies and mares on February 15, it represented one of the biggest victories of Elaine DiMarsico's training career. The Bronx, N.Y., native currently has only five horses under her care, and keeps her stable small so that she and her husband Joe can do all the work themselves.

"I do it all," she said. "I don't want employees, actually, because I'm very particular about how I want things done."

In the Snow Bunny, contested at six and a half furlongs, Welsh Spirit sat off the early pace under apprentice Jose Torres, then made a move on the turn to seize the lead and draw away by two and three-quarters lengths as the longest shot in the six-horse field. At 24-1, the 5-year-old daughter of Pembroke—Spirit of an Angel, by Green Dancer, returned $50.20 and earned $10,800 for DiMarsico. In the first two Snow Bunny legs, Welsh Spirit finished third and fourth, respectively.

DiMarsico began riding horses as a child, then became interested in the race track. She started out as an owner, but a negative experience with a trainer prompted her to get her own trainer's license.

"To me, horses are such a challenge," she said. "I try to figure out what my horses are all about as individuals."

Jockey Stewart Elliott, fresh from piloting Pennsylvania-bred Smarty Jones to victory in the Southwest Stakes at Oaklawn Park for trainer John Servis, found the winner's circle five times on March 2 at Philadelphia Park. The Toronto native leads the jockey standings by a 27-win margin over runner-up Orlando Bocachica, through March 5.

A five-horse spill in the 10th race on February 15 sent veteran riders Tony Black and Anibal Prado to the hospital with multiple injuries. The other riders, Eberd Estrada, Clinton Potts and Jorge Duarte Jr., escaped relatively unharmed.

Both Black and Prado were expected to be out of action for at least a month or two. ★

Forty-nine months after her unexpected birth, and with expenses approaching $50,000, Bill and Lynda Gallagher's Amazing Philly made her racing debut on February 18.

Under jockey Orlando Bocachica, Amazing Philly rallied from off the pace to earn third place in a five-furlong maiden race for a $15,000 claiming price.

"This is just terrific," said an ecstatic Bill Gallagher. "I think we're going to have a lot of fun with her."

The official track program showed her pedigree as "Dk.b./br.f. '00. Pedigree Unknown—Speak Compelling, by Compelling Sound."

CHARLES TOWN CELEBRATES RIDING PIONEER BARBARA JO RUBIN

JEFF GILLEAS

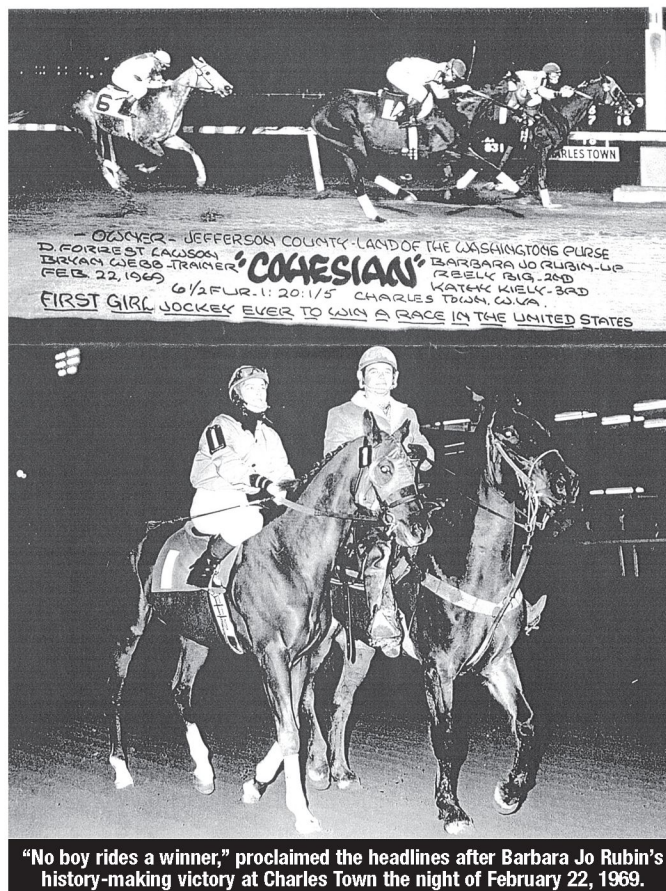

History was made 35 years ago—the night of February 22, 1969—when a 19-year-old jockey captured the first pari-mutuel race for her gender in the U.S., at Charles Town Races.

Barbara Jo Rubin ventured to Charles Town at the request of trainer Bryan Webb and rode a horse named Cohesian, withstanding a firestorm of controversy.

Rubin's indoctrination into racing had begun with match races on deserted highways and runway tarmacs near her home in Florida. Her cousin, a trainer at now-defunct Tropical Park, persuaded Rubin to try Thoroughbred racing. However, Rubin was denied a license to ride in Florida.

Disappointed and seeking a fair opportunity to unveil her skills, she enlisted the services of New England trainer Dave Harper. Following him to his Suffolk Downs headquarters, Rubin exhibited a knack with problem horses. Then trainer Bill Siravo gave her the opportunity to polish her talent. Her natural ability soon gained the attention of veteran conditioner Bryan Webb, an archrival to Siravo in the claiming business.

Though Siravo initiated the break that Rubin so desperately sought, Webb would provide the incendiary spirit that helped take her the rest of the way. Described by Rubin as a "rogue," he was her mentor. Meanwhile, the American Civil Liberties Union had taken up the cause of another would-be female jockey, Kathy Kusner. Ultimately, Kusner won the battle in court, paving the way for women to compete as jockeys.

Rubin's day of days began as usual. She arose to her normal chores. Galloping her customary allotment of eight to 10 horses at Pimlico on that cold February morning, she felt more tired than exhilarated in anticipation of that evening's hoopla.

Webb drove Rubin to Charles Town that night and on the way she fell asleep. Weeks before, the jockeys at Tropical Park had boycotted her presence, and it was more than possible that the same thing might happen again.

Rubin rode number 1 Cohesian, part of a Bryan Webb entry; Larry Kunitake was aboard 1A, Reely Beeg. Fans eagerly pushed their way through the turnstiles, contemplating a chance to witness the historic occasion.

Negative comments from her male counterparts forced Rubin to dress in the track's first aid room. State troopers were enlisted to guide her through the crowd on the way to the paddock. Local riders' wives were especially vocal in expressing their displeasure over Barbara Jo's appearance at the track.

One of the male jockeys present that night was Phil Grove, who would go on to win over 3,900 races and is currently a steward in Maryland. Phil left the starting gate from post position 2, aboard Tetraion, a 6-1 program selection. He vividly recalls the evening and his then traditional point of view. Grove, who was one of Charles Town's premier jockeys, remembers the disdain he felt at the prospect of being one of the "men beaten by a girl." It was "male pride and ego that permeated the room that night," Grove said.

In the end, management convinced the riders that this event, whether at Charles Town or elsewhere, was going to happen. The jockeys agreed to ride, safe in the belief that girls wouldn't persevere in this sport and the powder-puff derby fad would soon dissipate.

Rubin went on to narrowly capture the ninth race on that evening's program, but afterward was shunned—with none of the customary accolades and hazing normally bestowed upon a jockey for an initial victory. In Grove's words, "The race was over and history became reality. We went back to the business at hand, readying for the next race."

Roger Ramey, Charles Town's present-day vice-president of public affairs, remembers making his pilgrimage to the races that night and the large crowd that was in attendance, stimulated by the media circus the event created. Ramey, who would go on to serve 12 years on the West Virginia Racing Commission, six as chairman, said, "Barbara Jo Rubin was the catalyst who put the little track in the national spotlight."

It is hard to realize that only 35 years ago it was illegal for women to be jockeys in the U.S. Diane Crump, the first woman to ride in a Thoroughbred race and the first woman to ride in the Kentucky Derby, remembers it all too well. "Nineteen-sixty nine was hardly the 'Age of Aquarius' for us," according to Crump, whose persistence kept her in the business for 30 years. "Like Kathy Kusner and Barbara Jo Rubin, we all wanted to live our dream and be afforded an equal opportunity."

Rubin continued to ride throughout that year, and tracks began to solicit her presence. She ventured to New York, Delaware, New Jersey, Canada, Venezuela and Puerto Rico while still under contract to Bryan Webb.

However, Rubin's injury-plagued career lasted only one year, cut short by chronic knee and back pain. Her injuries were exacerbated by a bout of polio she'd had as a child. During her career as a jockey, she compiled 28 wins from 98 mounts.

Today, she remains close to the animals that brought her so much pleasure and notoriety while managing a horse farm in Illinois. She now instructs others on the subtleties of horsemanship.

LINDA DOUGHERTY

The Frank Laurine-owned-and-trained My New Love, a New Jersey-bred son of Not For Love, proved best in a $10,400 starter allowance at five furlongs the night of February 27.

Under jockey C.Y. Perez, the gelding was reserved in sixth early, then rallied inside on the turn to overtake pacesetter 11-year-old Balancethebudget, a former stakes performer, and draw clear to win by three and a half lengths. Timed in :57.88, he returned $13.60. Even-money favorite Chief Powhatan, trained by John Zimmerman, showed speed for a half-mile but faded to sixth.

The victory by My New Love, who was stakes-placed at 2 and 3, was worth $6,240 to Laurine.

Jockey Tara Hemmings, a native of England, has endeared herself to Penn National punters by habitually booting home longshots. Hemmings rewarded her followers several times in late February and early March, beginning with Al Haulman and Mike Spadafore's Barley Creek in the finale on February 26. Barley Creek won the mile test for $3,500 claimers by a half-length and returned $49, topping a $15,596 superfecta.

On February 28, Hemmings went to the lead and never looked back aboard Carlo DeThomasi's P. A. Pistol, who wired a group of $4,000 types by seven and a quarter lengths and returned $55.80 to his backers. Hemmings took her act to Philadelphia Park on March 2, again putting her mount, Coercion, on the lead to fool 11 rivals, before taking a maiden claiming test at five and a half furlongs by nearly five lengths and returning a $32.60 mutuel.

Hemmings has 11 winners from 82 mounts through the Penn card of March 3.

The week of February 26 through March 3 was a profitable one for several trainers, topped by longtime Penn National staple John Zimmerman. Zimmerman, who sent several horses to Gulfstream Park this winter, won seven races from 13 starts during the period, while Tim Kreiser won five of seven, and finished second once. David Wiggins was a perfect two-for-two during the week.

Through racing of March 4, Bruce Kravets was leading longtime leading trainer Harry F. Thompson by a two-win margin, 21 to 19. Kravets had 21 wins from 129 starts, while Thompson had 19 wins from 94 starts. Jose Martinez was in third place with 14 wins, while Todd Beattie and John Zimmerman were locked in fourth with 11 wins each.

Jockey Frankie Pennington's move from the Ohio circuit to the Mid-Atlantic region has proven to be a wise decision.

The 16-year-old double-bug apprentice has not only been winning races at Penn National, where he's based, but also at Philadelphia Park and Laurel Park.

"I'm originally from Big Springs, Tex.," said Pennington. "I came East with my uncle, Rodney Faulkner, when he shipped horses to Penn National last fall from Cleveland. Things are going pretty well right now so I'm planning on staying indefinitely."

Through racing of March 2 at Penn National, Pennington has eight winners from 112 mounts, with 11 seconds and 11 thirds. ★

The Black Stallion saga continues to grow on PA farm

by Linda Dougherty

"The head was that of the wildest of all wild creatures—a stallion born wild—and it was beautiful, savage, splendid. A stallion with a wonderful physical perfection that matched his savage, ruthless spirit."—The Black Stallion, by Walter Farley

Since it was first published in 1941, Walter Farley's The Black Stallion has never gone out of print. The series has sold more than 100 million copies, been translated into 21 languages, provided the basis for a successful movie, and cultivated several generations of horse lovers.

Although Farley died in 1989, his legacy lives on in other ways as well. His son Steven continues to write The Young Black Stallion series for young readers. The family farm in Earlville, Pa., where Walter Farley wrote most of his novels in a small office that was formerly a chicken coop, remains virtually untouched despite development on all sides of it.

The elder Farley's famous story—which launched many sequels and a prequel—is of a wild black stallion and a boy, Alec Ramsay. Ramsay is pulled to a deserted island by the horse after the ship they have been traveling on sinks during a storm. Ramsay befriends the horse, and eventually rides to him victory in a match race after they are both rescued and brought back to America.

The New York Times has called The Black Stallion "the most famous fictional horse of the century," and Farley became nearly as famous as his creation. A Black Stallion fan club was formed in 1949, and as Farley began writing subsequent books in the Black Stallion series, he also made frequent appearances at children's reading programs, schools, libraries and book fairs.

Farley was working with Steven on his 34th novel, and the 21st in the Black Stallion series, The Young Black Stallion, a prequel to the original story, when he died. Steven went on to complete the story, and on December 25, 2003, Walt Disney Pictures released it as a movie in 100 IMAX theaters.

Like his father, Steven writes at the Earlville farm, which is located southeast of Boyertown, Pa. "Absolutely," he said when asked whether he writes in his father's old office. "It is a very special place to me and the spirit of The Black Stallion is very much alive there."

The farm was purchased by Walter Farley and his wife, Rosemary, in 1945, and, although The Black Stallion was not written there, most of the books that followed were.

"We were married in May 1945 and moved to the farm in Pennsylvania that we bought for very little," Rosemary Farley once said. "It had a big garden and we thought if worse came to worst, we could always survive on vegetables. I kept working as a model while Walter wrote. . . when the wartime paper restrictions were lifted, Random House published The Black Stallion Returns, in October 1945. To our pleasure, and Random's, the royalty checks became bigger and bigger. Walter knew just what he wanted to do and set up a schedule of a book a year for the next five years and more. He kept to the schedule."

The farm also was home to an assortment of horses, who, in addition to his writing, were Farley's main loves in life. With acreage and a pond, the farm was a perfect place for him to indulge both passions.

"There was always at least one horse in the backyard when I was growing up," said Steven, who was one of four Farley children. A daughter, Pam, was killed in a car crash in Europe at age 20 in 1968, and memorialized by her father in his book, The Black Stallion and the Girl.

Steven Farley has written six books in the Young Black Stallion series, released in 1998 and 1999, with two more in the works. The books center on young Danielle Connors and her horse, Redman, and are based in the horse country of Ocala, Fla. He completed two additional books in the Black Stallion series his father began, entitled The Black Stallion's Shadow and The Black Stallion's Steeplechaser.

Of The Young Black Stallion movie, Farley said that it has been very well received by critics. "The New York Times featured it in a review under the headline, 'A Role That Even Seabiscuit Might Have Jumped a Fence For,'" he said. "We are also hoping the movie will have a big opening overseas. I received an e-mail from producer Frank Marshall that said the film was screened at this year's edition of the Euromax Large Screen Format Filmmakers Symposium in Berlin, and audience response was very strong. In April, the movie is set to open in India, Singapore and two locations in Australia."

For his Young Black Stallion novels, Steven did research at several Florida Thoroughbred and Arabian farms.

"I spent some time at Ocala Stud and a few others," he said. "On other occasions I went to yearling and 2-year-old sales."

Farley often discussed writing with his father, because from a very early age he knew he also wanted to become an author.

Walter Farley and his son Steven were photographed at Aqueduct some years ago.

TIM FARLEY

"My father understood that a writer could spend too much time thinking about the work rather than doing it," said Steven. "A self-starter note pinned on the office wall beside his typewriter states: 'Don't think, just do. The hardest part is to get going.' My father was always very encouraging of my writing but frank enough to tell me when he thought something I'd done didn't cut it. In high school and college I wrote more in a science fiction horror vein. Later, after I'd sold some animal stories to some children's magazines, I shifted my attention to writing for kids."

Throughout his life, Walter Farley was enamored with horses—riding them, owning them and even racing them. The Black Stallion, however, was a blend of several breeds—Arabian and Thoroughbred, especially—and was an idea thought to have come to the author when he was in the third grade, when he made up his mind to write his own horse story.

"He raised and raced trotters and wrote about them in The Black Stallion's Sulky Colt and The Blood Bay Colt," said Steven. "Volo Queen and Bonfire were among the horses born and raised for a time at the farm in Pennsylvania. They and others went on to be trained by the renowned horseman Stanley Dancer. The dedication page to The Black Stallion's Sulky Colt reads: 'For the real Bonfire, who never reached the Hambletonian but made it up in other ways—and for Rogue, our hopeful.'"

Walter Farley's uncle Bill Farley first trained show horses and later Thoroughbreds in New York, and as a boy Walter spent as much time with him as he could.

"[Uncle Bill] wasn't the most successful trainer of race horses, and in a way I profited by it," Farley once said in an interview. "He switched from runners to jumpers to show horses to trotters and pacers, then back to runners again. Consequently, I received a good background in different kinds of horse training and the people associated with each."

Farley's fascination with the race track lasted a lifetime. Steven said that as a boy he would often accompany his father to the races.

"My dad and I would often go to Belmont and Aqueduct together, where he had many friends," Steven said. "He loved the 'Breakfast at Belmont' program. From before I can remember our family would gather around the TV to watch the Triple Crown races, and later the races on Breeders' Cup Day and every other horse race we could find on TV. The volume was always turned up full blast to be heard over our cheering. My mother still hosts Kentucky Derby TV parties every year."

In 1977, smitten with Seattle Slew during his bid for the Triple Crown, Farley wrote a letter to Paula Turner, trainer Billy Turner's wife, complimenting her on the early training and development of the colt. She received the letter during Kentucky Derby week.

Turner had been captivated by The Black Stallion since she was a young girl in a North Carolina orphanage, even teaching herself to read with the words Farley put to paper.

"I wrote Farley a letter back inviting him to the next two Triple Crown races, and he called to tell me he wasn't feeling well enough to attend the Preakness, but that he would try and make the Belmont," she said. "He came to our house on Long Island two or three days before the race. . . I was totally star-struck, tongue-tied. He ended up becoming my dearest, closest friend, my confidant and support. . . he got me through some very tough times."

Turner said Farley told her that before Seattle Slew, Ruffian was the closest thing to The Black Stallion that he had seen, except she was a female.

She remained close friends with Farley until his death, even going to Canada with him to see the filming of The Black Stallion movie. He changed the dedication of one of his books, The Black Stallion's Filly, to include her: "To Paula Turner, who first read this book as a young girl, and whose dream came true."

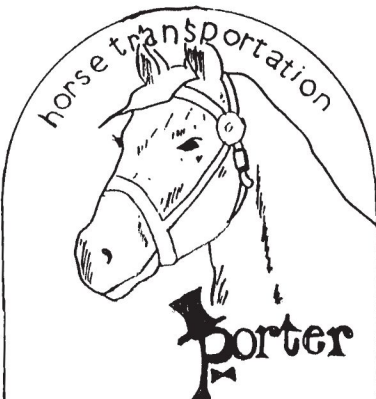

Although it has been nearly 15 years since Walter Farley's passing, Steven still receives letters and e-mails from people, young and old, who love his books.

"It is wonderful to know people still love the books after all this time and yearn to read new ones," said Steven. "The letters are always an inspiration."

"My father loved to write, but I think he loved the research part of his work even more," he said. "Research for him was being around a horse. He would go to meet the people who worked with them, from a county fair near Harrisburg, Pa., to the race track at Hialeah. And he would go to watch the spectators in the grandstand. In his own words, 'I love to look at people looking at horses.' Usually he went alone to do his research, but there were times he would bring me or my brother or sisters with him to haunt some stable area or hang along a fence rail."

"Over the years he made friends with jockeys, drivers, trainers, grooms, owners, sports reporters, circus performers and many other professionals in the horse business," he continued. "Though he never claimed to be a professional horseman himself, he certainly rubbed shoulders with the horse world in a very big way. More than anything else he was a window to that world for horse-loving people everywhere." ★

WINDSOR CASTLE TO WEST VIRGINIA'S TAYLOR MOUNTAIN

Multiple graded stakes winner Windsor Castle has been retired and joins the stallion ranks at James Casey's Taylor Mountain Farm in Charles Town, W.Va. Casey purchased the 6-year-old son of Lord Carson from Dogwood Stable, which campaigned Windsor Castle throughout most of his career. He is offered for $2,500 live foal.

In four seasons of competition, Windsor Castle made 29 starts, winning six races, finishing second seven times and third five times, for earnings of $591,715. His talent was evident early in his career when he won three races at 2, including the Grade 2 Remsen Stakes over Ommadon, and recorded seconds in the one-mile Nashua Stakes-G3 (to Ommadon) and six and a half-furlong Cowdin Stakes-G3 (to Fistfite).

Dogwood Stable purchased a majority interest in Windsor Castle from trainer Frank Alexander less than a month after the Remsen win, and Windsor Castle remained in Alexander's barn.

Windsor Castle proved versatile, winning from five and a half furlongs (in his maiden victory over a sloppy track at Saratoga) to a mile and an eighth, the distance of the Grade 3 William Donald Schaefer Handicap (which he won on Preakness day 2003) and Remsen Stakes-G2. He also captured the mile and a sixteenth Hal's Hope Handicap-G3 at Gulfstream Park while defeating Saint Verre and Najran.

More than half of Windsor Castle's starts were in graded stakes, and in addition to his graded placings at 2, he was second in the Dwyer Stakes-G2 (to E Dubai), Excelsior Breeders' Cup Handicap-G3 (missing by a neck to John Little), Stuyvesant Handicap-G3 (by a half-length to Snake Mountain) and Fort Marcy Handicap-G3 (to Saint Verre). His thirds came in the Meadowlands Cup Handicap-G2 (to Burning Roma and Volponi) and Creme Fraiche Handicap-G3 (to Hal's Hope and American Halo).

Windsor Castle was sidelined with a tendon injury in his final start of 2003, an allowance race won by Evening Attire in July at Saratoga. He was retired after an unsuccessful return at Gulfstream Park in late February.

The leading earner for his sire, the talented sprinter Lord Carson (by Carson City), Windsor Castle is out of stakes winner Frigidette (by It's Freezing). Frigidette has also produced North Coast Ltd. ($177,238, Burlingame S, etc.) and graded stakes-placed juvenile Tito's Beau (3rd Kentucky Cup Juvenile S-G3).

Windsor Castle's family includes $502,046-earner and Vanity Invitational Handicap-G1 winner Private Persuasion, as well as Wishful Splendor, Tempered Halo, Kaylem Ho and Salem Ho.

ALAE ROUGE GONE AFTER GETTING FIRST WINNER

Katrina Graham's dark bay 16-year-old stallion Alae Rouge, who got his first winner on February 21 at Laurel Park, died of injuries suffered during a van ride on February 26. The son of Red Wing Bold stood at Graham's Rougeland Farm in Adamstown, Md.

Alae Rouge's first winner, Red Ribbons, is the stallion's only starter from four registered Thoroughbred foals (from three crops). Alae Rouge also had a following as a show horse sire.

Sent off as favorite in the field of six going six furlongs, Red Ribbons, a 4-year-old gelding bred by Annette Eubanks out of Help Help Help (by L'Enjoleur), broke his maiden by one and three-quarters lengths for owner Donald Mensh and trainer Dale Capuano. Red Ribbons is one of two foals from Alae Rouge's second crop.

Alae Rouge won Pimlico's five-furlong Jet Pilot Stakes on the turf and two other races from five starts at 2. He would go on to race seven more seasons, making 76 total starts, winning 20 races, finishing second 16 times and third nine times, for earnings of $140,891.

A half-brother to stakes-placed Frigid Bluffer, Alae Rouge was out of *Miss Flagler (by *Frigid Aire II), whose dam *Miss Stowaway was a half-sister to Pas de Nom, dam of leading sire Danzig.

LIL'S LAD MOVES TO PENNSYLVANIA

TONY LEONARD

Lil's Lad, one of the top 3-year-olds of 1998 and among the top freshman sires of 2003, has been moved from Lane's End in Kentucky to Godstone Farm in Pine Grove, Pa., for the remainder of the 2004 season. The 9-year-old stallion, the property of Lane's End and Lillian and Murray Durst et al, is offered for $3,500 live foal or $3,000 to Pennsylvania foaling mares. Dr. Robert Fishman is syndicate manager.

Lil's Lad had a brilliant turn of foot, which was apparent early in his 2-year-old season. The tall (16.2½-hand) bay won his first start, a maiden special at Saratoga, by 11 lengths in a time of 1:03¾, one-fifth off the five and a half-furlong track record. He came close to wiring the field in the mile and a sixteenth Grade 1 Champagne Stakes, his final start as a juvenile, posting fractions of :22¾, :44¾, 1:08¾ and 1:34 before yielding grudgingly to Grand Slam in the final yards.

Sent to Florida for a spring campaign, Lil's Lad made his sophomore debut in a six and a half-furlong allowance race at Gulfstream Park the first week of January where he put in a stunning performance, winning by more than 16 lengths. He would cross the line first in his next three outings at Gulfstream. After taking a mile and a sixteenth allowance by six and a quarter lengths over Halory Hunter, Lil's Lad led every step of the way to defeat Coronado's Quest by more than two lengths at the same distance.

Sent off at 3-5 in the Grade 1 Florida Derby, Lil's Lad proved tough, which also cost him the race. Once again setting the early fractions, Lil's Lad was joined by Coronado's Quest before they went six furlongs and was bumped repeatedly by that rival until pulling clear. Then Cape Town made his move. Lil's Lad battled Cape Town in a stirring stretch drive and kept his nose in front at the wire, but the stewards called the favorite for drifting out in late stretch and disqualified him to second.

Lil's Lad finished a surprising second to Halory Hunter in the Blue Grass Stakes-G2, his final prep for the Kentucky Derby, and exited the race with a chipped ankle.

Lil's Lad returned to the races in the fall of his 3-year-old season but never truly regained his brilliant early form. He showed signs of a comeback when, in his seasonal debut at Keeneland the following spring, he scored by six and a half lengths in an allowance while covering seven furlongs in 1:24¾, one-fifth off the track record. But after two more unplaced efforts, he was retired. From 13 lifetime starts, Lil's Lad accounted for five victories and three second-place finishes, and earnings of $589,930.

A son of Preakness winner Pine Bluff (by Danzig), Lil's Lad entered stud in 2000, joining his sire at Lane's End. In his freshman season, Lil's Lad was represented by two stakes horses—the filly Pick of the Pack, winner of Calder's Lindsay Frolic Stakes, and his multiple graded stakes-placed son First Money, whose three starts included a maiden win and seconds in the Kentucky Breeders' Cup Stakes-G3 and Bashford Manor Stakes-G3.

Lil's Lad had eight additional winners (including a winner in Panama) in 2003 and ranked 26th in the nation on the first-crop sires' lists, with progeny earnings of $301,712, topping all of last year's Mid-Atlantic freshman sires.

Through early March, Lil's Lad has 12 winners from 38 starters and progeny earnings of nearly $400,000.

TRICKY MISTER GETS FIRST WINNER

Tricky Mister, a son of top sprinter Phone Trick who stands at Foxwatcher Farm in Newtown Square, Pa., was represented by his first winner on March 7 when the 3-year-old filly Motel Tricks fought for a neck victory in a one-mile maiden race at Philadelphia Park.

Bred, owned and trained by Wendy Kinnamon, Motel Tricks is a Pennsylvania-bred out of the Bates Motel mare Bates Gal. The dark bay or brown filly is one of two starters from 13 foals in the first crop of Tricky Mister.

Tricky Mister entered stud after a career during which he won 10 of 24 starts, was second five times, third in four other races and earned $251,270 for owner/breeder Arthur Appleton and trainer Bob Camac. Tricky Mister captured Meadowlands' Winter Quarters Stakes late in his 3-year-old season, and was second in the Brandywine Handicap and Kelso Stakes at Delaware the following year.

Tricky Mister is out of Miss Adele, a winning daughter of Mt. Livermore who is a half-sister to group winner and sire Calling Collect (by Phone Trick).

Owned by Carol Copoulos and Bunker Hill Farm, the 10-year-old stallion stands for $2,000 live foal.

SPECIAL TIMES TO GODSTONE FARM IN PENNSYLVANIA

Stakes-placed Special Times, a son of leading sire and up-and-coming sire of sires Seeking the Gold, has been retired to Godstone Farm in Pine Grove, Pa. Owned by Dr. Robert Fishman, 6-year-old Special Times stands his first season for $2,500 live foal, or $2,000 to Pennsylvania foaling mares.

"Special Times is very similar in many ways to Seeking the Gold's best son, Dubai Millennium," said Fishman. "The two were quite similar physically, both tall, rather elegant, imposing sorts, quite correct with proper bone. And both were produced from impeccably bred Northern Dancer-line mares who had excelled on the race course."

A 17.1-hand dark bay, Special Times was considered a good prospect for the 2001 classics by trainer Bob Baffert and owner/breeders John and Betty Mabee. He broke his maiden in impressive fashion in his first start, a mile and a sixteenth event at Santa Anita on January 21, 2001, rallying from last in the field of eight to draw off to win by two lengths.

Special Times immediately graduated to stakes competition, appearing a little over two weeks later in Santa Anita's Sham Stakes. Again trailing the field in last place, at times more than a dozen lengths behind the leaders, he rallied in the stretch to finish third. Said Baffert following the effort, "I think with time Special Times will be a serious horse. He's just figuring out how to run. He's a Derby-type horse."

While facing stablemate Congaree in his third start, Special Times bucked shins and finished fourth. Minor setbacks continued to plague the colt and he never regained his early form. After one more attempt at a return, following a two-year lay-off, Special Times was retired. He earned $46,470 from seven starts.

Special Times is the second of five foals of racing age out of the Mabees' Nijinsky II mare Likeable Style, a Grade 1 winner of $322,326. Two of Likeable Style's yearlings have been offered at auction, each selling for at least $500,000. Likeable Style also went through the ring in November 2001, bringing $925,000 while in foal to A.P. Indy.

Personable Lady, Special Times's second dam, was a multiple stakes winner and twice Grade 1 stakes-placed earner of $227,971. She has also produced $336,812-earner West Coast Warrior, who is eight times stakes-placed, as well as the dam of graded stakes-placed juvenile Unleash the Power.

Other notable runners found in Special Times's family are Grade 1 winners Bundler and accomplished sire Quack.

FLEET FOOT STANDING FIRST SEASON IN MARYLAND

Gone West's son Fleet Foot, out of the highly accomplished broodmare Nimble Feet, is standing his first season at William Rickman's William's Grove Farm in Chesapeake City, Md. The stud fee for the 6-year-old bay stallion, now owned by Rickman, has been set at $2,500 live foal.

Bred and campaigned by Juddmonte Farms, Fleet Foot made five starts during three abbreviated seasons, winning his first three times out, and finishing third once, while earning $105,300.

Making his first start in July of his 3-year-old season, Fleet Foot won a six-furlong maiden special weight at Del Mar by two lengths. He reappeared two and a half weeks later at Del Mar, taking a six-furlong allowance by seven lengths over Mr. Wonderful.

It would be nearly a year before Fleet Foot reappeared, but he returned a winner, getting up late to capture a six and a half-furlong optional claimer at Del Mar by a half-length over Rapid-dough. After finishing third in late August behind Crafty C. T.

in another optional claimer at Del Mar, this time at six furlongs, Fleet Foot was once again shelved.

In his final career start, Fleet Foot finished fourth, beaten a total of two and a half lengths by Way to the Top, Do Whats Right and Menacing Dennis, in an allowance at Hollywood Park in June 2003.

Nimble Feet, a daughter of Danzig and a full sister to Grade 1 winner Contredance and stakes winner Old Alliance, is also the dam of Eltish, a multiple group winner in England whose stakes-placed efforts in England and the U.S. included seconds in the Breeders' Cup Juvenile Stakes-G1 and Philip H. Iselin Handicap-G1, and a third in the Dewhurst Stakes-G1. Now standing at stud in Florida, Eltish earned $704,186.

Other foals out of Nimble Feet include graded stakes winner and sire Forest Gazelle, and stakes winners Souplesse (dam of Comfy) and Light Step, as well as stakes-placed Yamuna.

Fleet Foot's second dam is the Cyane mare Nimble Folly, who also produced four stakes winners and a stakes-placed runner. Her son Shotiche (by Northern Dancer) was a graded stakes winner who entered stud. But her daughters have had even greater success, topped by Skimble (by Lyphard), a multiple graded winner who has produced multimillionaire Skimming, winner of back-to-back runnings of the Pacific Classic Stakes-G1. Another daughter, Flit (by Lyphard), was a minor winner, but is the dam of 1000 Guineas Stakes-G1 winner Wince.

Fleet Foot descends from Enchanted Eve, the dam of Tempted and behind the pedigrees of such runners as millionaire Lazy Susan, Salem, Broom Dance, Pumpkin Moonshine and King of the Heap.

TWO NEW STALLIONS FOR PENNSYLVANIA

Janet Chisholm is offering two new stallions at Lindwood Farm in Greensburg, Pa., for 2004.

Squall, a son of recently pensioned top sire Summer Squall, and Spot, a registered Thoroughbred who is dual-registered with the American Paint Horse Association, are standing their first full seasons after successfully siring foals from test breedings.

Squall, out of Grade 1 winner Dance Teacher (by Smarten), was a multiple allowance winner of $59,607. The 7-year-old is a half-brother to stakes-placed winners and sires Ghostly Moves ($272,259, 2nd Widener H-G3, 3rd Pegasus H-G2, Broward H-G3, etc.) and State Craft ($189,470, 3rd Sunny Slope S). From 22 runners in three crops, Ghostly Moves has sired five stakes horses (an impressive 23 percent stakes horses/starters). From his first three small crops to race, State Craft is represented by 71 percent winners/starters (10/14).

Dance Teacher won three stakes, including the Grade 1 Ladies Handicap, and earned $306,821. She is a half-sister to millionaire Gold Mover, who accounted for 13 wins—11 in stakes—and amassed $1,523,010. Squall's second dam, the winner Intentional Move (by Tentam), is also the dam of stakes winner Lunar Mover and granddam of Fiasty Countess ($389,465, Honeybee S-G3, etc.), Casanova Market ($159,432, Holly S, etc.) and Spartan Cat ($143,120, Herat S, etc.). Squall's third dam is the Northern Dancer mare Lunar Dancer.

"Squall is big, gorgeous and the sweetest horse to work with," notes Chisholm. He stands for $2,500 live foal (or $2,000 if the mare foals in Pennsylvania).

Spot is a 4-year-old son of noted show horse sire Nite Spot out of State Stenographer, a daughter of Secretary of State (a son of Secretariat). His oldest foal is now a yearling from a test breeding in 2002. He stands for $2,500 live foal.

STARS ALIGN FOR AQUARIAN PRINCE'S FIRST WINNER

Iron Royalty became the first winner for his sire Aquarian Prince when awarded the victory in a six-furlong maiden special weight on February 20 at Penn National.

After gaining the lead in upper stretch, the 4-year-old gelding just failed to hang on for the win in his debut, but was elevated to first after My T Sharp was disqualified for interference with another runner and placed fourth. Bred by Aquarian Prince's owner Bill Rennekamp, Iron Royalty was sold as a weanling by Rennekamp to current owner Jay Young. A Pennsylvania-bred out of Honest Dice (by Iron Ruler), Iron Royalty is trained by Todd Beattie. He is one of two foals from Aquarian Prince's second crop.

A son of champion and leading sire Deputy Minister, Aquarian Prince is out of graded winner Water Lily (Fr), a daughter of classic-winning miler Riverman. Placed in two starts at 4, Aquarian Prince is a half-brother to Grade 1 winner Talinum ($737,818, Flamingo S-G1, etc.) and classic-placed Gharam, who was third in France's Poule d'Essai des Poulisches-G1. Other foals out of Water Lily include the dams of group stakes winners Simeon, Waquaas and Noble Rose (Ire).

Aquarian Prince's second dam, First Bloom (by Primera), was named champion 2-year-old filly in France and appears in the pedigrees of Australian horse of the year Jeune and English group winner Beneficial (GB), who finished third in the Washington, D.C., International-G1.

Eleven-year-old Aquarian Prince has 16 foals in his first four crops, which include his 2-year-olds of 2004. He stands at Deer Lake Farms in Eighty Four, Pa., for $500 live foal.

Looking back

From The Maryland Horse (published 1936 to 1997) and Mid-Atlantic Thoroughbred

25 YEARS AGO

Hopes for victory by Maryland timber star *Ben Nevis II and rider Charlie Fenwick in the 1979 English Grand National were doomed at the 15th fence.

■ The Maryland General Assembly approved legislation that doubled the value of the Maryland-bred Fund program, from approximately $1.5 million to $3 million annually.

Hailed as the Maryland horse breeding industry's greatest gain since the inception of the Maryland Fund in 1962, the bill (soon signed into law by Governor Harry Hughes) allocated a full 1.0 percent of the total mutuel handle to the Maryland Fund at the state's three mile tracks, plus one-tenth of one-half of the breakage. Previously, the Maryland Fund received one-half of 1.0 percent, plus the unchanged share of the breakage.

■ Medaille d'Or, Canada's champion 2-year-old of 1978, entered stud at E.P. Taylor's Windfields Farm in Chesapeake City, Md., becoming the first son of Secretariat to stand in the state.

■ Marylander Charles Fenwick recounted his near-disastrous trip in the English Grand National aboard local timber star *Ben Nevis II.

Two riderless horses came into their path approaching the notorious 15th fence—a six-foot deep open ditch in front of a five-foot, two-inch obstacle of spruce, commonly known as the Chair.

Impeded—or some said bumped—by one of the horses, *Ben Nevis landed atop the Chair, then kicked his way clear. Fenwick remounted, but pulled up *Ben Nevis after one more jump.

A year of planning, and six months of training in England, had come to a disappointing end. “But he gave me the ride of my life,” said Fenwick. “I’ll never forget it and I wouldn’t hesitate to ride over the course again. . .”

■ Janon Fisher Jr., a dominant force in Maryland's horse breeding industry for more than a half-century, died at the age of 81.

10 YEARS AGO

■ The Maryland Hunt Cup reached the century mark, having first been contested on May 26, 1894.

“More than anything else, the Maryland Hunt Cup has always been a race about horses, the special horse, the ‘Maryland Hunt Cup’ horse, the dream, the ultimate goal of generations of owners, riders and trainers,” wrote Margaret Worrall.

■ Glennie Martin's 9-year-old mare Jessie E. (by Lord Gaylord) was living proof that “a horse with class can excel in many different areas,” in the words of her proud owner.

A winner on the race track, and dam of two registered foals, Jessie E. was a star on the Florida show circuit, taking top honors in the second-year green division at the Palm Beach International, among other accomplishments.

■ Former Pimlico Race Course owner Ben Cohen died at the age of 94.

50 YEARS AGO

■ From “The Saddle Bag” by former Maryland Horse editor Humphrey S. Finney:

February 15. Spent a good part of the day visiting around the widely scattered stables located in the vicinity of Aiken, S.C., where so many Thoroughbreds have wintered the past half-century. The track itself is under the management of Fred Post and his son Billy of the famous firm, Wm. Post & Son. Billy Post himself has a large group of horses belonging to Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Harry La Montagne and others. The stables of Oleg Dubbassoff, Peter Bostwick, Pete Williams and Joe Kramer were also inspected. The winter has been open and horses seem to be in excellent condition and well forward. The Aiken group should be prominent when racing opens up North.

February 16. Spent the day visiting at Camden, S.C., with Tom Waller, Jim Ryan, Ray Woolfe, Sylvester Veitch and others who have wintered at this salubrious center. Visited Marylander Charlie Shaw at his cottage, he having been laid low with a heart condition from which he is well on his way to recovery. Saw the C.V. Whitney classic candidate, Fisherman, who looks in very good bloom. A lot of good looking 2-year-olds here at Camden, particularly Jim Ryan's big string. Tom Waller also has some good prospects. “Stille” Shaw was busy training Eddie Taylor's Canadiana who, while no beauty, is a first-class race mare.

February 17. Today was spent at Columbia where “Tad” Legere runs a most businesslike wintering quarters at the old Fair Grounds. Paddocks have been built, buildings have been painted and improved, and the place looks as attractive as Belmont Park in June. Max Hirsch's immense string of King Ranch and other horses is the largest group, though “Slim” Pierce has a fair-sized string of 2-year-olds for the Pin Oak Farm of the Abercrombies. Tom Barry showed us Errard King, who has wintered well and should be heard from this spring. Eddie Kelly showed us the Brookfield Farm stable of Baltimorean Harry Issacs which has wintered here for some years.

February 18. Still traveling North. Today's “port of call” was Southern Pines, where Mickey Walsh has a lot of good ‘chasers in training, including Vernon Cardy's Sun Shower. Cardy's two recent importations, *Nemrod and *Kerkab, bought from the Aga Khan's English and French stables, are attracting a lot of visitors to Vernon Valley Farms where Mr. and Mrs. Cardy delight in showing their stock. Mrs. W.O. Moss keeps things active in the foxhunting picture locally with keen interest showing everywhere in the sport. The whole Walsh family, good horsemen every one, are busy preparing Mickey's extensive string for its New York campaign, not to speak of various hunt meetings on the way North.

Steve and Sue Quick produce another jewel

Story by Sean Clancy

Photographs by Barrie B. Reightler

Sue Quick likes to pop in the tape of the 1983 Jennings Handicap, the day her mare Kattegat's Pride took on the stronger sex. It was the day the crowd grumbled that Kattegat's Pride couldn't do it. Quick can still hear the nay-sayers today and admits that even she had her doubts.

Her homebred mare took on 10 colts and geldings from the outside post in a tough race.

"They said she couldn't do it that day. They said it was too much even for a filly like her. She was on the outside and you could hear the people saying, 'The gray mare isn't going to do it today,'" Quick said. "I have to admit, I didn't think there was a shot. Then at the head of that lane, she switched gears and left them like they were standing still."

As she often did.

Trained by Joe Devereux, Kattegat's Pride amassed $511,812 while winning or placing in 18 stakes. The Maryland-bred daughter of North Sea won three Maryland-bred titles—3-year-old filly champion in 1982 and older female champion in 1983 and 1984. All on the Quicks' first try.

As it often does in the horse business, lightning can strike at the oddest moments. Sue and her husband Steve bought Steve and Sue Quick on the front steps of their circa 1802 farmhouse. St. Omer's is the original name of the property.

Pilgrim's Pride for $5,400 at a Timonium auction in February 1978. Barren at the time, the First Landing mare was bred to North Sea that spring and next thing you know, the Quicks are excelling in the racing game.

In their first try, the Quicks had what others in the horse business spend their whole lives searching for—a serious runner who could eventually be the blue hen of the operation.

"We bought Pilgrim's Pride from the sale, bred her to North Sea, and had Kattegat's Pride," Sue Quick said. "My husband said, 'This is easy.' But as you know it might happen to you once but. . ."

Top: St. Omer's Farm, as viewed from the road. The Quicks use the older barn to the left of the house for foaling, all of which they handle themselves. Below, Sue Quick with Classical Saluki (by Deerhound) and her Crypto Star filly, one of 18 foals expected to be born at St. Omer's this spring. Right, Kattegat's Pride was pictured several years ago, just before her retirement from the broodmare ranks.

Over the years, the Quicks have watched a slew of foals come and go from their St. Omer's Farm in Harford County. Kattegat's Pride didn't become the foundation mare they were hoping for when she retired. She had only four foals but luckily Kattebuck was one of them.

Kattebuck, by Spend a Buck, won once in 16 starts and didn't throw anything noteworthy until her fifth foal, Silmaril. Kattebuck has a yearling colt by Our Emblem and will be bred to Diamond this year.

The Quicks purchased St. Omer's Farm, the name the farm came with, in 1976 and began to transform it into a breeding operation. The work was easy for Steve Quick, who had built a building company from scratch. They weren't necessarily horsepeople but decided to jump into the business after being persuaded by other Harford County residents, including Allen and Audrey Murray of Murmur Farm. St. Omer's encompasses 130 acres in Forest Hill, Md.

The place is full of mares owned by the Quicks (who have about a dozen broodmares of their own) and their clients, including James M. Courtney, whose mare Neolithic foaled 2003 champion Maryland-bred 3-year-old filly Finally Here at St. Omer's.

Still, one resident stands above them all—the pensioner Kattegat's Pride. "She's 25 and still on the farm," Quick said. "Everybody loved her when she was running. She won seven stakes in a row. That was amazing."

The Quicks have six horses in training with three different trainers.

Silmaril will test her stamina in her coming starts, with the Caesar's Wish Stakes, against Maryland-breds, on April 24 at Pimlico on her agenda.

"Chris thinks she'll go long, her grandmother sure could," Quick said.

"Kattegat's Pride started her career later, I think she broke her maiden in January. This filly broke her maiden at

Well, perhaps twice.

Now 20 years later, the Quicks have another runner. And she's a granddaughter of Kattegat's Pride. Silmaril, a 3-year-old filly by Diamond out of Kattegat's Pride's only daughter Kattebuck, won the February 15 Jameela Stakes for her first stakes victory.

Bred in partnership with the Quicks' friend Christopher J. Feifarek, a radiologist in Towson, Md., and trained by Chris Grove, Silmaril is now two-for-four in her burgeoning career.

"The Jameela was a good day. She's quiet just like Kattegat's Pride, always has been. You never knew she was around," Sue Quick said. "She looks like she might be a really good filly. It's fun watching her."

2 and we don't usually start them at 2. But she was ready. She went to Middleburg to be broken and she just went on. We'll see what happens, maybe you'll be seeing her name more."

Named for the "great jewels" of the J.R.R. Tolkien stories, Silmaril learned her early lessons with Jean Rofe at the Middleburg Training Center and has improved ever since.

"She's all business. In the Jameela, I told my husband,

Farm manager Andrea Cumberland rides Kattebuck in from pasture. The Quicks built the barn on the hill (above) in 1988 after scouting Kentucky farms for design ideas. The loft holds 50 tons of hay, which they import from Montana.

'Oh my God, it's just like watching Kattegat's Pride again,'" Quick said. "The first couple of races she got on her toes and perked up but not this time. She walked around there like she did it every day. It's fun having a good one. Everybody should get a chance." Or two.

Could 2004 be the breakout season for Samuel Bayard's always-tough race mare Bronze Abe? A stakes winner at 2, 3 and 4, the gray daughter of Two Punch has hovered a notch beneath the leaders within her Maryland-bred division.

Until this year. In three starts during the first three months of the season, Bronze Abe annexed two stakes and gained graded status—with a close-up third to Bear Fan and Gazillion in the Grade 2 Barbara Fritchie Handicap.

In her latest effort, Bronze Abe set every fraction en route to a hard-fought half-length victory over Search for a Cure in the March 7 Conniver Stakes. Odds-on favorite in the seven-furlong contest, Bronze Abe, carrying 119 pounds, gave from two to four pounds to each of her three rivals, and covered the distance in 1:23.75. Finishing a nose apart, a length and three-quarters behind Search for a Cure, were In Love and Darnestown.

It was Bronze Abe's ninth victory—and fifth stakes win—from 24 career starts, and boosted her total earnings to $385,164.

Bronze Abe is one of the first horses to race for Samuel Bayard, but her family and his have been entwined for nearly 30 years.

Bayard's late parents James and Nancy Bayard bred and raised horses for decades at their Bohemia Manor Farm in Chesapeake City, Md. Among their top performers was the Hagley mare Rolling Mill, a six-time stakes winner whom they purchased for $35,000 at the 1978 Eastern Fall Yearling sale upon the advice of their trainer Grover G. (Bud) Delp—who, not coincidentally, trains Bronze Abe.

Rolling Mill became a foundation of the Bayards' breeding program, producing five stakes horses, including Buckles and Kinks (by Waquoit), who was runner-up in both the 1996 Maryland Million Lassie and 1997 Maryland Million Oaks.

Bronze Abe is Buckles and Kinks's first foal.

career by winning the Heavenly Cause Stakes and placing in three other added-money races that season, including a second in the Maryland Million Lassie. James Bayard, an attorney in Wilmington, Del., died in 1984.

Samuel Bayard, the youngest of the Bayards' five children, owns a leasing company, Rockford Leasing, in Wilmington, and had avidly followed his parents' horses. He purchased Bronze Abe, along with two other fillies, from his mother's estate.

Buckles and Kinks was sold at the 2001 Fasig-Tipton Midlantic December sale, topping the first session on a bid of $90,000.

Silmaril

Jameela Stakes

$75,000-guaranteed, 7 fur., registered Maryland-bred 3-year-old fillies. Laurel Park, Feb. 15.

Dk.b./br.f., 2001, by Diamond—Kattebuck, by Spend a Buck. Bred by Stephen E. Quick and Christopher J. Feifarek; owned by Stephen E. Quick; trained by Christopher W. Grove. Foaled at St. Omer's Farm, Forest Hill, Md.

Lifetime
starts	1st	2nd	3rd	earnings
4	2 (1)	1	0	$68,100
(through Feb. 15)

2004: 1st $75,000 Jameela S, 7 fur., registered Md.-bred 3-year-old fillies, Laurel, Feb. 15.

Silmaril's victory in the 22nd running of the Jameela Stakes was a happy surprise for her owners and co-breeders Steve and Sue Quick (see article on page 1).

The 3-year-old, from the first crop of Maryland stallion Diamond, rallied from last to first and triumphed by two and a half lengths, rewarding her backers with a $22.60 mutual payoff.

Silmaril defeated, in order of finish, Forestier (the 1.7-1 favorite), She's a Rebel Too, Ten Treasures, Tom's threetees and Sea of Promises.

Silmaril, who so far has raced exclusively at Laurel Park, launched her career in promising style, finishing second (to World Event) in her debut, a six-furlong maiden special weight on October 16. She returned to win a five and a half-furlong maiden special on December 11. But a faltering fourth-place finish (seven and a half lengths behind the winner, Among My Souvenirs) in the six-furlong Marshua Stakes on January 3 caused many people to be wary when she stepped onto the track for the Jameela, her fourth start.

Trainer Chris Grove, who has had Silmaril throughout her career, was optimistic all along, however. "She ran green in the Marshua," said Grove. "It was the first time she had dirt hit her in the face, and she wasn't focused on running."

The Jameela pushed Silmaril's earnings to $68,100.

White Mountain Boy

Goss L. Stryker Stakes

$75,000-guaranteed, 7 fur., registered Maryland-bred 3-year-olds. Laurel Park, Feb. 7.

B.c., 2001, by Meadowlake—La Sarto, by Cormorant. Bred by Elk Manor Farm; owned by Michael J. Gill; trained by Phil Schoenthal. Foaled at Elk Manor Farm, North East, Md.

Lifetime
starts	1st	2nd	3rd	earnings
5	4 (3)	0	1 (1)	$165,250
(through Feb. 28)

2003: 1st $60,000 Rollicking S, 7 fur., registered Md.-bred 2-year-olds, Laurel, Nov. 8; $100,000 Maryland Juvenile Championship S, 1½ mi., registered Md.-bred 2-year-olds, Laurel, Dec. 31. 2004: 1st $75,000 Goss L. Stryker S, 7 fur., registered Md.-bred 3-year-olds, Laurel, Feb. 7; 3rd John Battaglia Memorial S.

White Mountain Boy remained undefeated in four career starts while scoring by a half-length as odds-on favorite in the Goss L. Stryker Stakes on February 7.

After allowing Hands On to set the early fractions in the seven-furlong race, White Mountain Boy surged up outside horses in midstretch and dueled Hands On to the wire, stopping the timer in 1:24.22. The 122-pound highweight, White Mountain Boy gave six pounds to the runner-up, and seven pounds to each of the other three starters: Thiruvengadam, Seeyouattheevent and Connie's Devil.

White Mountain Boy was bred by Jim Moran's Elk Manor Farm in North East, Md., which sold him for $50,000 at the 2002 Keeneland September Yearling sale. He has made his career for nationally leading owner Mike Gill, who bought him for $50,000 at Fasig-Tipton's February 2-year-olds in training sale at Calder.

Each of White Mountain Boy's first four starts took place at Laurel Park. He won a mile and a sixteenth maiden special weight race on October 23, narrowly defeating Cryptic Skier, and was moved up from second to first in the November 8 Rollicking Stakes, upon the disqualification of Hands On. Then came a resounding, six-length triumph in the Maryland Juvenile Championship Stakes on December 31.

In his first venture outside of Maryland, White Mountain Boy contested the $100,000 John Battaglia Memorial Stakes at Turfway Park on February 28. Racing close to the pace, he couldn't get past the leaders and had to settle for third in the field of 11.

White Mountain Boy (by Meadowlake) is out of La Sarto, a daughter of Cormorant whom Moran claimed for $25,000 at Saratoga in August 1994, in the middle of her 4-year-old campaign. Moderately successful in her own racing career, recording 16 wins and placings in 24 starts, and earning $91,480, La Sarto is a granddaughter of the outstanding producer Anne Campbell, dam of millionaire Grade 1 winners Desert Wine and Menifee.

La Sarto produced White Mountain Boy as her fourth foal.

Moran has sold three of La Sarto's foals as yearlings, for a combined total of $390,000.

Barren last year, La Sarto is in foal to Menifee for 2004.

White Mountain Boy scored by a head over Hands On (inside), with Thiruvengadam a head back in third place.

Colonial Downs stakes schedule

Colonial Downs has increased the number of stakes for Thoroughbreds from 14 to 15 with the addition of a new turf race, the $200,000 Virginia Oaks for 3-year-old fillies, to be run on July 10, Virginia Derby Day. The new race will join the seventh annual $500,000 Virginia Derby-G3 and $200,000 All Along Breeders' Cup Stakes-G3. The $50,000 Zeke Ferguson Memorial Steeplechase Stakes, a staple of past Derby days, moves to the Sunday following the Derby.

The inaugural Virginia Oaks will be run at a mile and an eighth. The Virginia Derby, as always, will be a mile and a quarter on the turf. For the first time, it will have graded status, joining the All Along as a Grade 3 stakes. The 2004 schedule also includes 11 $50,000 stakes, with all but four—the Da Hoss, Buckland, Chenery and Tippet—restricted to Virginia-bred and sired runners.

Colonial Downs's eighth Thoroughbred meet will run 34 days, from June 11 through July 26. Racing will be Friday through Tuesday, with a 1 p.m. post time on Saturday and Sunday. Monday, Tuesday and Friday post times will be 5 p.m.

Mid-Atlantic farms to sponsor stakes races

Thanks to a strategic partnership involving the Virginia Thoroughbred Association (VTA), Colonial Downs and the Virginia Racing Commission, several Mid-Atlantic stud farms will be name sponsors for Virginia-bred stakes at Colonial Downs and Delaware Park in 2004.

Stud farms that donated stallion seasons worth $10,000 or more to the VTA's 2004 Stallion Season Auction were rewarded with a name sponsorship of one of the nine Virginia-bred and/or Virginia-sired restricted stakes that are an integral part of the Virginia Breeders Fund. The VTA manages the Virginia

Breeders Fund for the Virginia Racing Commission.

Country Life Farm and Northview Stallion Station will be the name sponsors for the M. Tyson Gilpin and Hildene Stakes at Delaware Park. Both races are for 2-year-olds.

The Stallion Company's Somethingroyal Stakes for fillies and mares, 3 years old and up, will be run at Colonial Downs.

Non-regional farms Mill Ridge Farm, Ashford Stud, Adena Springs, Edgewood Farm, Wafare Farm and Lakland LLC will also be recognized with stakes races at Colonial Downs.

Virginia Racing Commission approves sixth OTB

Colonial Downs's request for a license to operate a new off-track betting parlor in Vinton was approved in March by the Virginia Racing Commission.

The Commonwealth's only parimutuel race track survived the first step in a November referendum when the town of Vinton voted in favor of an OTB by just a 20-vote margin. The New Kent-based track then located a site—an eight-acre parcel across the street from the LancerLot Sports Complex—and agreed to lease or buy the property over a period of 10 years. The 14,500-square foot facility is projected to cost $3.5 million and generate annual handle of $30 million.

Racing commission members visited the site on February 23 and held a meeting open to Vinton residents to comment on the proposed location. Potential traffic congestion was among citizens' primary concerns, but the city of Vinton's planning department was not concerned. Although the commission received a letter from Vinton Mayor Don Davis asking the license be denied, two Vinton councilmen, Tom Rotenberry and vice-Mayor Billy Obenchain, attended the hearing and spoke in support.

The Vinton OTB is scheduled to open in November.

Virginia General Assembly passes OTB expansion bill

After intense lobbying at the General Assembly in Richmond, including a visit from two-time Virginia-bred horse of the year Punch Line, the House of Delegates passed SB167, a bill to expand the number of OTBs allowed in the Commonwealth, by a 56 to 40 vote. SB167 will increase the number of OTBs available from six to 10; it earlier passed the Senate by a vote of 27 to 13.

A group of Virginia horsemen, along with lobbyists for Colonial Downs, the Maryland

Jockey Club, VTA and Virginia HBPA, was primarily responsible for the passage of what was seen by some conservative legislators as a controversial bill. With the passage of the local enabling referendum in Vinton, Colonial Downs had utilized all six OTBs available under the Virginia statute. The legislation is a critical part of the long-term growth plan that is part of the most recent purse contract between Colonial Downs and Virginia HBPA.

FROM THE VIRGINIA HORSEMEN'S BENEVOLENT & PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

Raising a good horse

Before returning to her native Virginia, Susan Hart and her husband, Dr. E.C. (Pug) Hart owned and operated Hart Farm in Ocala, Fla. They stood stallions, foaled more than 100 mares each year, and ran a training center. Then one day when Hart was jumping her Paint pony over some hay bales, her husband decided to try it. He got on, jumped the pony, and was hooked. Soon he was asking his wife about "that foxhunting thing she used to do," and the Harts decided to sell the Ocala farm and move to Virginia's foxhunting country. Now Pug is joint-Master of the Loudoun West hunt and Susan was this year's North American field hunter champion on her Holsteiner/Thoroughbred cross.

Their Thoroughbred operation, which is located in Millwood, Va., has been downsized from around 300 head to 60 mares, foals and young horses. "We breed, race, and sell commercially. Mostly now, we sell commercially.

"People wonder why we foal in Virginia," said the breeder. "We want to support the program here. Also, Virginia has really good soil. We can raise a good horse here." The Harts sold their first Virginia-bred, a Forest Camp filly, for $180,000 at Keeneland in January. "She looked like the real deal," described Susan. "The filly had good bone."

Dr. E.C. (Pug) and Susan Hart, along with trainer Mary Eppler (from left), brought Victory Gallop to prominence as a 2-year-old. The son of Cryptoclearance went on to classic glory for Prestonwood Farm.

The Harts' 2003 foal crop are all Virginia-breds. According to Susan, she and her husband breed for American racing. "We believe in both genotype and phenotype. We want to be sure it works on paper, but we're fanatics about the physical."

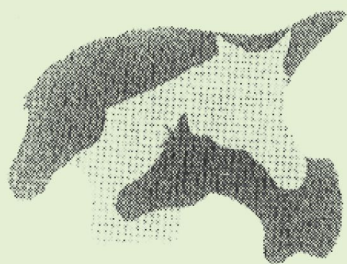

They race the young horses who don't sell. Among the ones who didn't pass the vet was classic winner Victory Gallop. The Harts purchased him for $25,000 at the 1996 Keeneland September Yearling sale and ran him at Colonial Downs in 1997, where he won the New Kent and Chenery Stakes. Subsequently, the colt was sold to Prestonwood Farm, which campaigned him to victory in five stakes, including the Belmont Stakes-G1, and to a title as champion handicap horse of 1999.

Having watched Virginia's only parimutuel track evolve over the past seven years, Susan observes that "Colonial Downs has a great gift with the turf course and is doing a good job with the Summer Turf Festival." As a newly elected member of the Virginia Horsemen's Benevolent & Protective Association's board of directors, she will have the opportunity to help horsemen further the good work.

WVTBA honors 2003 state-bred champions

Presentations were made by WVTBA vice-president Doug Allara

West Virginia's Thoroughbred breeders gathered at Charles Town on February 22 to honor state-bred champions of 2003. Award winners, chosen by a committee of WVTBA directors, were an impressive group.

Jr. accepted the trophy on behalf of their star who is owned by Lippert and trained by Susan Cooney.

Nick Stakes. The son of Weshaam has all the credentials to develop into a special 3-year-old. James Casey stood proudly in the picture acknowledging his youngster's accomplishments.

Two-year-old male

Two-year-old filly

Marshall Lippert and John F. Jones Jr. are honored for Petes Hick Chick.

Petes Hick Chick, a daughter of Kokand, dominated this division with wins in the Golden Gull, Triple Crown Nutrition Breeders Classic and West Virginia Futurity Stakes. Breeders Marshall Lippert and John F. Jones

James W. Casey (right) receives the award for his Taylor Mountain Farm homebred Take the Plunge.

James and Eleanor Casey's ever powerful Taylor Mountain Farm unveiled another top-performing homebred: Take the Plunge. After winning his debut in impressive style, he captured the Vincent Moscarelli Memorial Breeders Classic, West Virginia Futurity and St.

Three-year-old filly

Robin Grams bred and owns champion Fancy Buckles.

One filly overpowered this category with talent and consistency: Fancy Buckles. Bred and owned by Robin Grams and trained by Tim Grams, this racy daughter of My Boy Adam won the Cacapon and Wild and Wonderful Handicaps and Ruth C. Funkhouser Stakes. She has never finished worse than second in her career. Robin Grams presented the invocation at the awards dinner.

Three-year-old colt

The very quick Longfield Spud, a son of Mercer Mill, won this intensely competitive division for breeder Longfield Farms, whose founder Ralph Thomas (now retired) was a pioneer in West Virginia Thoroughbred racing and breeding. Trainer Edwin Tobin subbed for the connections of Longfield Spud in the awards ceremonies. Longfield Farms, now owned by Wade Sanderson, should continue as a successful venture under his astute leadership.

Three-and-up sprinter

Ruth Funkhouser, matriarch of O'Sullivan Farms, was in the spotlight with older sprinter Earth Power.

Charles Town's focus on speed commands attention, since four and a half furlongs is a distance run approximately 40 percent of the time. Earth Power was a sparingly raced runner who launched himself into the limelight with his Breeders Classic "Dash for Cash" performance.

Owned by Ruth and Randy Funkhouser of O'Sullivan Farms fame, he was the most deserving within a contentious group. Earth Power, a homebred son of deceased sire Feel the Power, has just tapped into his potential.

Older filly or mare

Robert Lloyd was represented as a breeder by Shesanothegrump.

This was a very evenly matched class. Gameness and reliability described the victor Shesanothegrump. This blue collar runner took on all comers throughout the year and added the HBP West Virginia Oaks and Roger Van Hoozer Memorial Stakes to her list of accomplishments. Owned by Kenneth Pitta and trained by Karen Duke, the 5-year-old will be back this year to defend her title. Breeder Robert Lloyd continues his dramatic success with his prolific mare Roberta Grump.

Older runner

Tex Mullins has celebrated many proud moments with West Virginia Breeders Classic hero Cape Power.

This well-respected category provided the closest vote on the evening's ballot. Cape Power, having saved his best for last, grabbed top honors. Owned by Tex Mullins and trained by Tim Grams, the son of Feel the Power scored in the West Virginia Breeders Classic to clinch the title. His initial stakes win did not come until mid-September when he captured the Robert R. Hilton Memorial. Cape Power was bred by Tex Mullins at the trainer's Jefferson County farm.

Horse of the year

Edna King accepted A Huevo's trophy on behalf of Suzanne Moscarelli.

The most coveted award of the evening set up an interesting contrast between two horses—one who dominated the local racing scene and the other who had not run here since 1999. Donald's Pride and A Huevo were each qualified to lay claim to the title of West Virginia-bred horse of the year. Each runner's camp was confident that their horse had accomplished enough to be worthy of being crowned king. The adage that you are only as good as your last race held true for the winner, A Huevo. His last start at Laurel Park, in the $300,000 Frank J. De Francis Memorial Dash, vindicated his selection. The fact that this race carried Grade 1 status undoubtedly influenced the judges' decision. Trained by the legendary Michael Dickinson, A Huevo was the beneficiary of his conditioner's remarkable patience and horsemanship. Edna King beamed in accepting for breeder and dear friend Suzanne Moscarelli.

Charles Town horse of the year

Nancy Gaynor is the delighted breeder of Charles Town horse of the year Donald's Pride.

Nancy Gaynor stepped forward as the breeder of one of the most consistent West Virginia horses in recent memory, Donald's Pride. Trained by Patty Burns, this son of Deputed Testimony ended 2003 with a five-race win streak and easily defeated older rivals on a regular basis. Soundness, consistency and desire describe the unanimous choice for local horse of the year.

Special achievement

WVTBA president Cynthia O'Bannon and vice-president Doug Allara joined local breeder Nancy Staples in saluting longtime horsewoman Edna King for her tireless efforts and contributions to West Virginia racing and breeding. Edna retired last year following 15 years with the WVTBA.

NOT FOR LOVE TWO-YEAR-OLD HAS FASTEST WORK AT FASIG-TIPTON CALDER - SELLS FOR $500,000!

LESLIE MARTIN

Progeny of Mid-Atlantic leading sire NOT FOR LOVE continue to stand out in the nation's leading sales rings as a colt out of the stakes-placed mare GALA GOLDIE'S BEST brought a stunning $500,000 at the Fasig-Tipton Calder Select Two-Year-Olds in Training sale.

After posting the sale's fastest work, zipping through a quarter in :21.1, the Glade Valley Farms Maryland-bred colt looked well worth the price and was nabbed by Sheik Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum's chief bloodstock advisor John Ferguson from M&H Training & Sales, agent.

The spotlight is a familiar place for the dark bay who topped Fasig-Tipton's Eastern Fall Yearling Sale in 2003, selling for $230,000.

WAQUOIT'S WATER CANNON 'DOUSES THE FIELD' IN THE MIRACLE WOOD S. AT LAUREL!

The gray WAQUOIT gelding WATER CANNON put the damper on the Triple Crown hopes of Capac when he scored a narrow victory in the $40,000 Miracle Wood Stakes at Laurel Park, while the much vaunted favorite tired to fifth.

The Nonsequitur Stable's WATER CANNON raced to the front coming out of the first turn of the 1-1/16 mile test, then relinquished the lead until he was all the way back in fifth. WATER CANNON then came bursting between horses a furlong from home, and fended off a late burst from Eastern Bay to win by a half-length.

Trainer Linda Albert commented, "I think he's improving a lot and the blinkers really made him focus."

WATER CANNON has won his last three starts while wearing blinkers. "He's a WAQUOIT. He's supposed to be older. Who expected him to be a good 3-year-old?" Upon further thought Albert added, "It seems it would be logical to stay right here in Maryland. The Private Terms Stakes would be next."

Bred in Maryland by Mr. & Mrs. Charles McGinnes, WATER CANNON blazed the 1 1/16 miles in 1:45.29.

LION HEARTED FILLY BRINGS $240,000 AT BARRETT'S SELECT - A WHOPPING 48 TIMES HIS STUD FEE!

Progeny of LION HEARTED continue to roar in the nation's leading sales rings as STORM HEARTED, a Maryland-bred filly out of Shallah, brought the gavel down at $240,000 during the Barretts March Selected Two-Year-Olds in Training Sale. That's a money-making 48 times her sire's $5,000 stud fee.

STORM HEARTED was nabbed by CRK Stable from Paula Capestro Bloodstock, Agent.

LION HEARTED, a multiple graded stakes-placed winner of $191,630, had first-crop yearlings that include a $125,000 yearling at Fasig-Tipton Eastern Fall Yearling sale and a $110,000 yearling (4th-highest colt) at the Fasig-Tipton New York sale.

TWO PUNCH CONTINUES TO BE A 'DAM' GOOD BROODMARE SIRE!

ANNE EBERHARDT

Under a steady rain, SINISTER G (Matty G - Sinister Punch, by TWO PUNCH) scored a major surprise at Turfway Park in a major Derby prep. The $500,000 Lane's End Stakes G2. Ridden by Paul Toscano for his father, trainer John Toscano Jr., SINISTER G kicked away from challenger That's an Outrage in midstretch. He went on to a 1 1/2-length victory in a time of 1:50 3/5 for the 1 1/8-mile test on a track rated fast.

SINISTER G is owned by Robert Toscano, both sons of the trainer John Toscano, and family friends Kim Colorado and Yamile Carlat.

An Ocala Breeders' buy in April for $67,000, SINISTER G earned $300,000 for his third win in eight career starts to push TWO PUNCH's broodmare sire earnings well over the $10,000,000 plateau.

TWO PUNCH is now the broodmare sire of six graded stakes horses.

Getting down to business.

Most of the yearlings sent to Larking Hill at the end of the summer are galloping right along, well on their way to becoming race horses. If you haven't chosen a place to send your youngsters yet, consider this: At Larking Hill, we specialize in developing a cooperative yet aggressive attitude in a young Thoroughbred. Through a complete and careful educational process, we are able to give a young race horse the special competitive edge that makes the difference on race day. We send youngsters to the race track ready to get down to serious business—saving you time and money.

And don't forget—Larking Hill offers ideal facilities for freshening and conditioning runners and has a knack for “patching up” sore horses and returning them to the race track in winning form.

Larking Hill
